SMILE! YOU'RE WITH CANDID KORMAN

In "My Dinner With André" an actor and a director reveal themselves during a long dinner conversation. Life imitates art. Harvey Korman was seated for a luncheon interview in the Disney Studio commissary when his old friend and fellow Disneyite Tim Conway walked in. Korman invited him to sit down, and they began talking.

TIM CONWAY: I see the tape recorder's on. We want to talk about Mr. Conway, right?

HARVEY KORMAN: Wrong. We were going to talk about Mr. Korman.

TC: You can't talk about you without me. I've heard about your part in "Gone Are the Dayes." You play a relocation agent for the government, a kind of rumped guy who's seen it all.

HK: Yeah. His name is Charlie Mitchell. It's a different kind of character than I've ever done. He's warm, lovable, irascible, funny and touching. I think he could work as a TV series character, and I really want to pursue that.

TC: What preparation did you do for this character? Did you actually say, here's how he's gonna look, here's what he's gonna do, here's what his mannerisms are? Or did you just do a spinoff of yourself?

HK: Sure it's a spinoff of myself. It's also a combination of different people I know, including my agent. This character, Charlie Mitchell, goes around eating junk food, with his belly hanging out, not caring how he looks....

TC: Like you say, it's really an extension of yourself.

HK: Okay, let's change the subject.

TC: How would you feel if this character got into a series and you did it for four or five years?

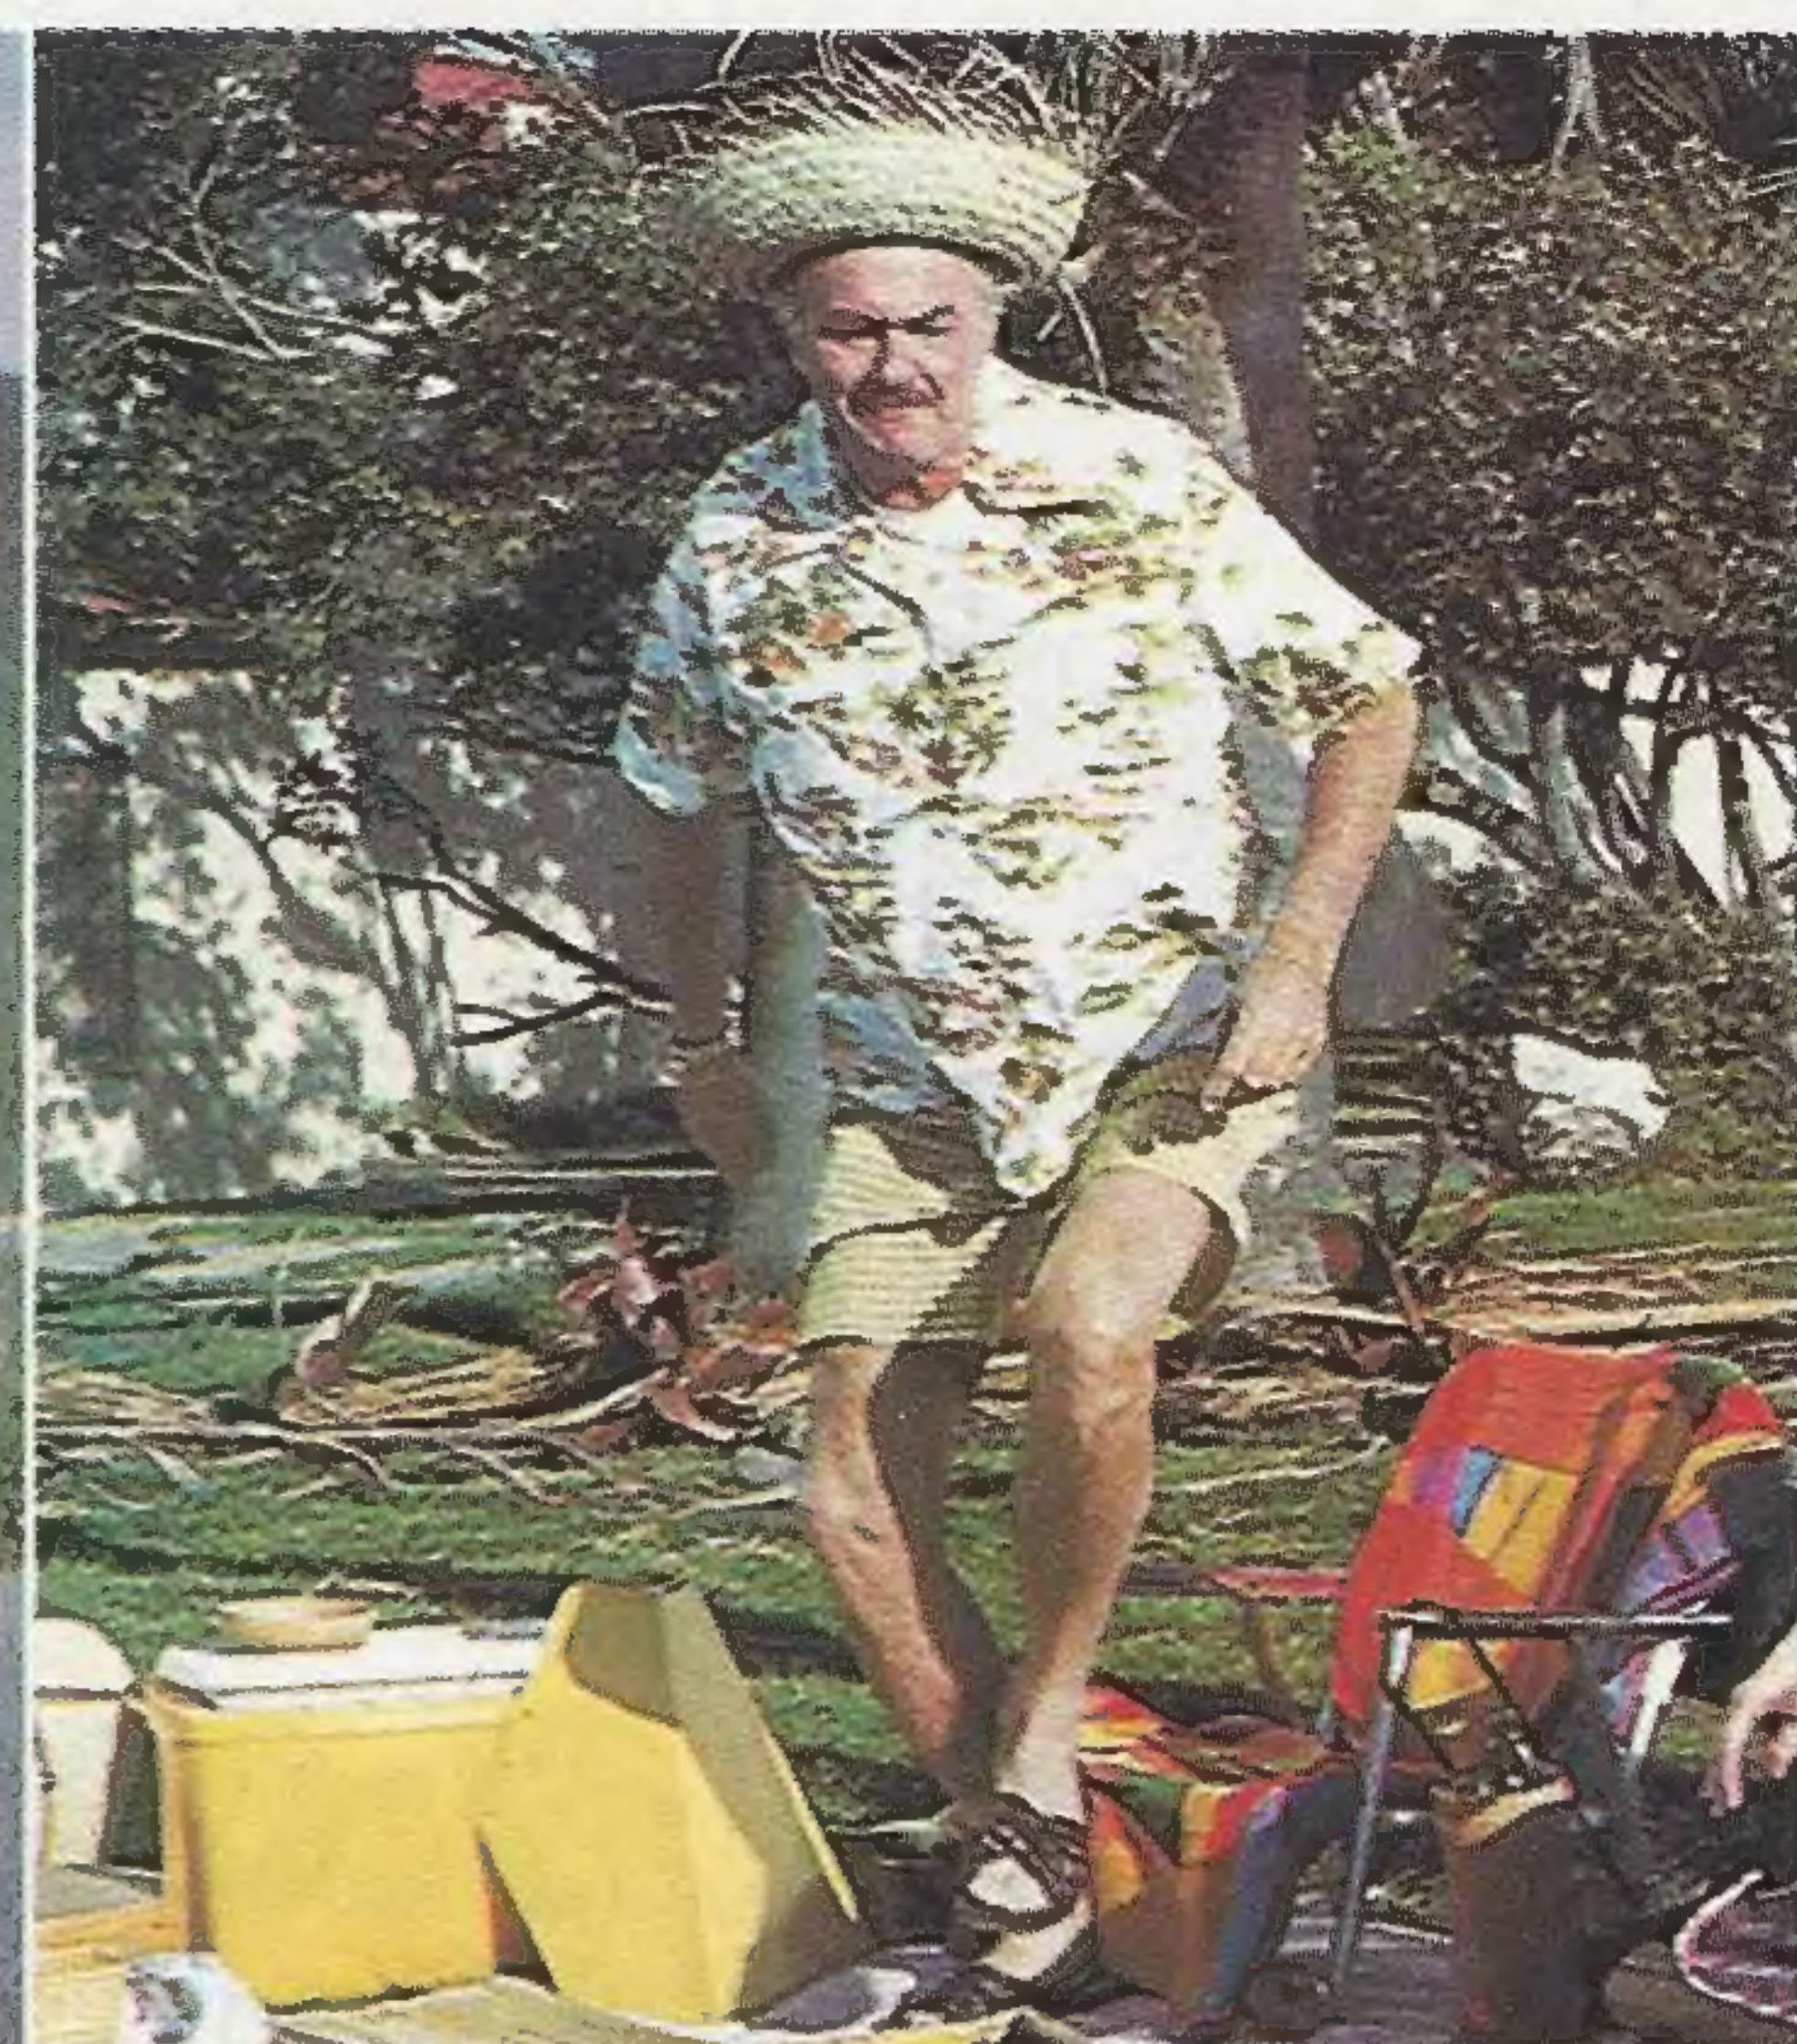

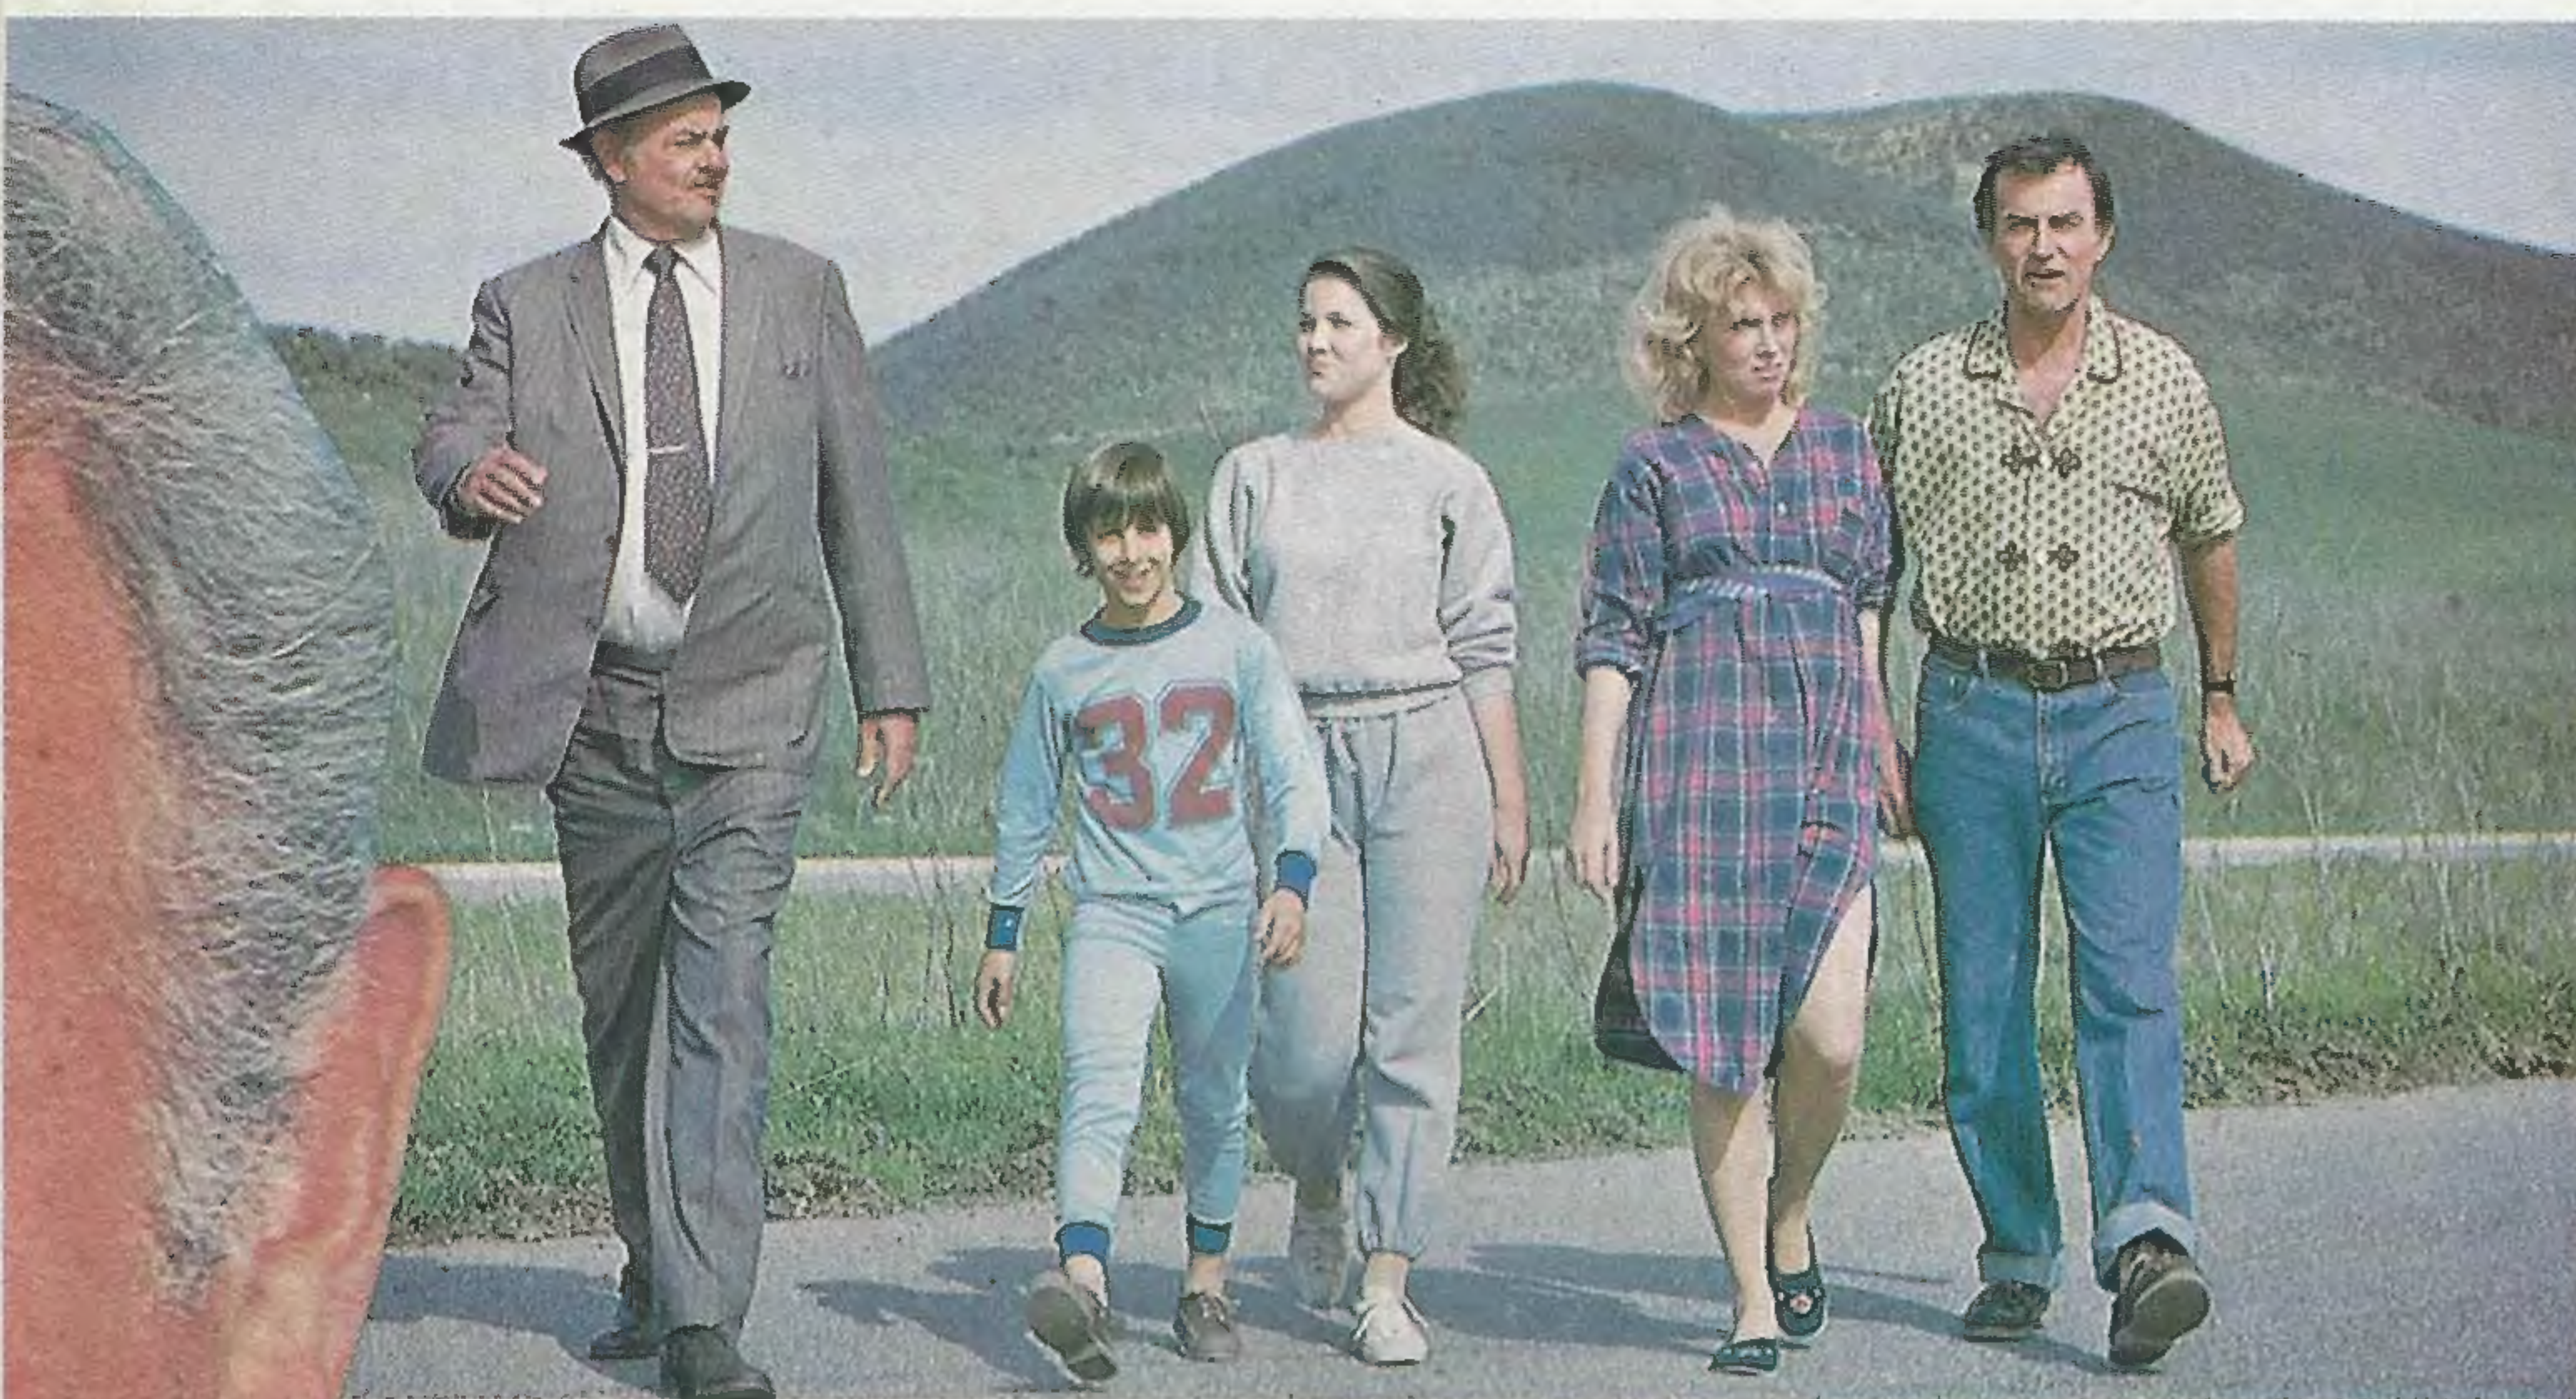

HK: I'd like to do that. And then I'd probably definitely retire.

TC: You'd quit?

HK: I'm not kidding. I've had kind of a unique TV career, I guess, spending 10 years in variety—14 actually, counting Danny Kaye. I did so many variety shows with so many sketches, I just sort of got burned out. I didn't want to do characters any more.

I've been offered wonderful things in New York on Broadway. When Harvey Korman as Charlie Mitchell, a government relocation agent, escorts the frazzled Daye family to yet another hideout. They are supposed to be under his wing, but while they are roughing it Charlie soaks up a little sunshine.

I first started, as a kid, I did a lot of Shakespeare, Shaw, Ibsen, Chekhov. I was very hungry to explore that kind of stuff. I don't have the energy or desire to do that any more.

I've started producing and directing a little bit. I find that interesting and satisfying. But what I really enjoy is playing golf, going to the races, being with my loved ones — my friends, my family and kids—having a good meal and a few laughs...that's it.

TC: Yes, you and I have talked about this, Harvey. I think our most imperial moment along those lines was in the dressing room on the Carol Burnett show. You were in a chicken suit with red leggings and I was in drag, wearing a dress. There we were, a chicken and the Avon lady, talking about serious stuff like raising a family and being a good father.

But that's the kind of business we're in. You're supposed to act like a kid, with that naive, innocent playfulness which is part of our talent, I think. And then you gotta turn it off at five o'clock, or eight o'clock, or whenever it is, and be a father, a husband and a citizen. It's ambivalent and it's hard.

HK: Especially in a chicken outfit. There's a lot of pain connected with it.

TC: Not pain, but you know....

HK: There's nothing more exacting than comedy. Go back to the Keatons, Chaplins, Stan Laurels and Harold Lloyds. Those guys worked things out to a fare-thee-well.

You're as exacting as anybody I've ever seen. Getting the sketch straight in your mind, how it's going to look, what props you'll need, how to set it up so the gags will work. It seems easy and spontaneous, as all good performances should, when you go out there and do it. But I know what effort, what thought went into it.

TC: All of a sudden a vacation sounds good. You going away?

HK: Yeah. Going to Barbados for a Triathlon. They're bringing in 20 or 30 celebrities to add to the festivities. First class transportation for two people, hotel, dinners and galas. I've never been down that way. Like to see what those people deliver.

TC: Sure. Getting a little tired of Hawaii? Pretty boring after a while, huh? Have a nice trip, honey. ♡

Although Harvey Korman plays a bumbler for his Disney Channel movie debut in "Gone Are the Days," he is a skillful actor with years of experience on stage, screen and television. Korman returns to the Channel in September as a cruise ship skipper in "Herbie Goes Bananas."

FINALLY! MUSIC VIDEO FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

During one of our frequent brainstorming sessions when we come up with ideas for Disney Channel programs, somebody mentioned Michael Jackson. We'd all seen "Thriller" and, for that matter, a lot of other good stuff on MTV. So it struck everyone...how about a DTV?? No sooner asked than done. Pencils flew, outlines for such a show filled the suggestion box, and now we're proud to present the premiere of DTV.

Of course, being a Disney Channel production, it's not like any other music video show. DTV is free of heavy rock and violent action, musical emphasis being on pop, country and golden oldies. Each 15-minute program features hit recordings by artists like Elvis Presley, Jan and Dean, Fats Domino, Hall and Oates, Perry Como, Tennessee Ernie Ford and Spike Jones. Performing stars include virtually every name in the Disney annals of film, as well as some from other studios.

What we've done is comb through hundreds of thousands of feet of film for scenes which match the tempo of the music they interpret. An exhausting job physically and exasperating creatively, since the numbers had to express a theme as well. We think the result, however, is extraordinary. Here's a sampling of what you'll see:

"Tutti Frutti," Little Richard's style-setter of the 1950s starring Donald Duck as a thwarted lover. "Kiss On My List," Hall and Oates' top hit of 1982 featuring Chip 'n' Dale and other characters in love. "Private Eyes," another Hall and Oates nifty, spotlighting Goofy as a blundering private detective. "Surf City," Jan and Dean's winner interpreted by Donald Duck, Goofy and a beach full of Hawaiian bathing beauties.

We know that if you've got a beat in your feet, you'll be hooked!

We keep a list of the pictures you tell us you'd like to see, and moving close to the top is "The Parent Trap." So we decided to premiere it this month as a Disney Channel exclusive, presenting Hayley Mills in twin roles for a double helping of fun.

Although she's now grown and raising a family in England, Hayley is warmly remembered for her Disney films. The studio still gets a steady flow of fan letters addressed to its former child star.

"The Parent Trap" gave Hayley her second (and third) Disney movie roles, and won a Parents Magazine Gold Medal Award for Outstanding Family Entertainment. Hayley had received a special Academy Award for her performance in "Pollyanna."

Finding a final title for this film was a challenge. Starting as "His and Hers," it changed to "We Belong Together," then "Petticoats and Bluejeans" before Walt Disney picked "The Parent Trap" from thousands of title suggestions.

Hayley stars as Sharon McKendrick, a prissy miss from Boston, and Susan Evers, a California-style tomboy who meet at summer camp. It's dislike at first sight, and their uproarious quarrels turn the camp upside down. Then they make an incredible discovery—they're sisters, separated at birth by divorced parents and never told about each other.

As soon as the twins put two and two together, they begin conniving to reunite Mom and Dad, raising plenty of hilarious havoc every two-step of the way.

THE SECOND MOTION PICTURE CREATED EXCLUSIVELY FOR THE DISNEY CHANNEL

gone ARE THE DAYES

Harvey Korman, Susan Anspach, Robert Hogan

The Daye family (Robert Hogan, Susan Anspach, youngsters David Glasser and Sharee Gregory) witness a gangland style shooting. They're needed to testify against the gunmen. Charlie Mitchell (Harvey Korman), a veteran government relocation agent, is assigned to hide and protect them. Now they're really in trouble, for no matter where Charlie stashes them the Dayes can't seem to stay put. And the mob is on their heels.

Charlie has all kinds of hideaways: a monastery where the brothers observe an oath of silence, a farmhouse in Missouri, a mountain cabin so remote that "Jeremiah Johnson wouldn't stay there," a luxury liner and a migrant workers' camp. Wherever they're concealed, the Dayes surface—leaving a trail of laughter in their wake. Finally they manage to hide themselves, and nobody—including Charlie—can find them. A nice, normal suburban American family disappears under the nose of the Justice Department and organized crime. What next?

This oddball odyssey, in which the Dayes learn about life while learning about themselves, is the second motion picture made exclusively for The Disney Channel. It was filmed almost entirely on location, with the legendary liner Queen Mary providing settings for scenes aboard a luxury cruise ship.

ALL IN A DAYE'S WORK

If you wanted a word to describe the thoroughly modern mommie Susan Anspach plays in "Gone Are the Dayes," "plucky" would be close. As Phyllis Daye, who is suddenly uprooted from her secure suburban world, she personifies survival. Explaining how she approaches roles, Susan said:

"I look to see how the character relates to what I know about life, then I look to find things in myself that relate to the character."

Susan didn't have to look far to play Phyllis Daye. She herself leads a pleasant suburban life in Santa Monica (Calif.) with her children Catherine and Caleb. Her recent films include "The Misunderstood," "Montenegro" and Walt Disney Productions' "The Devil and Max Devlin."

"But," she said, "when anyone asks me what movie I'd most like to make, the answer is 'A talkie of "City Lights" with Woody Allen and me.'"

The ISLAND at the TOP of the WORLD

David Hartman, Donald Sinden, Jacques Marin, Mako, David Gwillim, Agneta Eckemyr

A rich Englishman, an American archaeologist, a French aeronaut and an Eskimo guide are the unlikely quartet who, in 1907, fly into the arctic wilderness in search of the Englishman's missing son. A storm carries them to a mysterious, time-forgotten island inhabited by warlike Vikings. They encounter adventure beyond imagination while attempting to escape the island and their own almost-certain doom.

This suspense saga in the Jules Verne tradition was filmed on locations spanning the Arctic Circle from Alaska to Greenland, and in Norway. The airship Hyperion was designed by Disney production artists. It con-

From Disney- A Super Half Time

The day after this year's Super Bowl in Tampa Bay, everyone at The Disney Channel was buzzing over the halftime spectacular. Those who'd missed the show were kicking themselves, and everyone else wanted to see it again. Figuring there'd be a lot of you who felt the same way, we got to work.

We called our friends at Walt Disney World who had produced the extravaganza. Director Gary Paben and his staff spent six months organizing the celebration with a company of over 2,100. Gary agreed something should be done, and now it's happened: a half-hour super halftime special exclusively on The Disney Channel.

The special features the entire Super Bowl XVIII halftime revue itself—highlighted by 500 dashing dandies in white tails dancing to the hit "Steppin' Out." Singers and dancers from all over the south light up a multi-level, star-spangled stage.

But that's not all. We've added never before seen behind-the-scenes footage of rehearsals and set construction, even interviews with some of the creative principals who made the show lively, colorful and memorable. Join us in reliving the Super Sunday spectacular this month.

LEARNING AND LAUGHTER MAKE A WINNING PAIR!

A treasure hunt and a seance lead teen scientists and super-sleuths Tom and Anne Edison to new discoveries. Viewers learn too, as they watch this show, which combines fact and fiction in an entertaining, educational format.

In "Over the Rainbow," a local radio station hides a cash prize and airs clues to its whereabouts. Tom and Anne join forces with their fellow students to look for it. Pesky brother Paul, however, is in cahoots with a loner who wants the prize money for herself. It looks as if they're getting close—until...!

Anne and Tom, the Edison twins, set their ghost traps

"Voices from Beyond" teaches a down-to-earth lesson about illusion versus reality. All three Edisons make an out-of-this-world effort to save a gullible widow's home from a couple of con artists who set up seances as part of their scam.

Animated explanations of scientific principles cap each show.

We asked some friends who are circus fans what they'd like more than a free pass to The Greatest Show on Earth. We thought they'd be stuck for an answer. Wrong again! Most of all, they said, they would like to go behind the scenes and see how the circus is put together.

That made us curious, too. So we phoned Irvin Feld, who's chairman and chief executive officer of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. Faster than a funambulist's backflip, our camera crew were on their way. They spent the entire season at winter quarters in Venice, Florida, to bring you this insider's view of circus life before the tour begins.

It's a study in organized pandemonium. Four hundred people work around the clock, putting finishing touches on the multi-million dollar, soon-to-travel production.

The circus is a mix of old-timers, newcomers and in-betweeners. Lou Jacobs, who has been with Ringling for 58 years, still clowns under the big top and teaches the 45 students at the College of Clowns. New graduates prepare for their professional debut. Trainer Gunther Gebel-Williams rehearses with his jungle animals. The air is full of Flying Españas perfecting their trapeze act high above the net. Albena Dukovi of the 1980 Olympic Games gymnastic squad practices with The Dukovi, an acrobatic troupe from Bulgaria.

Gebel-Williams' Bengal tiger leaps through fire

At last travel time draws near. "Circus" closes with a dress rehearsal of the Spectacle, that magnificent parade around the arena which is the quintessence of circus showmanship featuring every animal and member of The Greatest Show on Earth.

Toby Tyler

OR 10 WEEKS
WITH A CIRCUS

Kevin Corcoran, Henry Calvin,
Gene Sheldon, Bob Sweeney

Toby Tyler (Kevin Corcoran) is a 10-year-old orphan whose imagination runs riot when a one-ring circus reaches his small town of Guilford. Toby meets fast-talking peanut vendor Harry Tupper (Bob Sweeney) and decides to join the big top.

Toby's travels are brimful of excitement with fantastic new friends: an improbable strong man (Henry Calvin), the old head clown (Gene Sheldon), a pretty equestrienne his own age (Barbara Beard) and an imp of a chimp named Mr. Stubbs. But homesickness prevails, and Toby and Mr. Stubbs encounter more adventures as they set out for Guilford together.

Among the featured circus stars and trained animals are the Marquis Family of performing chimps, the Jungleland Elephants, the Flying Viennas, and four clowns of Ringling Brothers fame: "Eddie Spaghetti" Emerson, "Korky" Goldstein, Duke Johnson and his son Harry.

During filming a Disney Studios sound stage was transformed into a full scale circus set. Gilded wagons, tents and tanbark caught the eye, while nostrils quivered at the fine bouquet from hot popcorn, peanuts, wild animals and monkeys.

Mr. Stubbs hugs Toby Tyler

Les Misérables

Michael Rennie, Debra Paget, Robert Newton, Edmund Gwenn

A victim of stern French law in the early 1800s, Jean Valjean (Michael Rennie) gets 10 years in prison for stealing a loaf of bread. Without serving the sentence completely, he escapes and regains his honor by becoming a successful businessman and local village mayor.

He cannot shake his old nemesis, a fanatically dedicated policeman named Javert (Robert Newton), who hunts him down and turns him into a fugitive again. The contest between them becomes an issue of justice versus compassion.

A powerful cast and screenplay forge this fourth Hollywood version of the Dumas classic into a masterful production.

A Tribute to Mom

Goofy, Donald, Mickey, Pluto and the rest of the gang toss an animated bouquet to mothers everywhere in appreciation of their many talents.

Every mom's housekeeping skills receive a left-handed salute from Goofy in "Father's Day Off." Goofy thinks he can handle the house better than his wife does, but when he tries, chaos ensues. The Goof eats humble pie!

Pluto learns about proper parenting by becoming a surrogate mother in "Pluto's Fledgling." Meanwhile, Donald's attempts to use child psychology in "Spare the Rod" spoil his day!

Mrs. Jumbo, the Wise

Little Hen and other famous Disney moms appear in scenes depicting such motherly attributes as cheerfulness, warmth, wisdom, and patience. Put them all together, they spell M-O-T-H-E-R in all her guises and glories.

Tarka the water wanderer

Tarka the Otter

(Narrated by Peter Ustinov)

Splendid nature photography and Peter Ustinov's narration capture the imagination and keen insight of Henry Williamson's book, "Tarka The Otter." This live-action feature follows Tarka—the little water wanderer—from his birth on the English moors.

His mother teaches him to hunt fish and to keep clear of predators like Deadlock, an otter-hunting hound. Tarka journeys downstream to the Atlantic ocean and meets Whitetip, a young female otter. He defeats a rival for her love, but inevitably must face Deadlock in a life-and-death struggle to protect his new family.

AIRY CLASSICS AIR ON THE CHANNEL

the RED BALLOON AND Stowaway in the Sky

Here are two flights of fancy from French director Albert Lamorisse, evoking a child's fantasy world in scenes so vivid that dialogue is hardly necessary.

"The Red Balloon" in this Academy Award-winning short classic assumes a life and personality of its own. The playful balloon floats behind a schoolboy and waits for him after school. They respond delightedly to each other in a magical tale of friendship and soaring imagination.

Schoolboy meets balloon

"Think of the air as a friendly medium to stroll through," advises a small boy's grandfather in "Stowaway in the Sky." This scenic journey by hot air balloon (narrated by Jack Lemmon) carries the young stowaway from the rooftops of Paris over Mont Blanc to the Mediterranean.

Both films star the director's son Pascal.

Stuart Whitman, Darren McGavin, Vincent Van Patten

In the heat of the Civil War, Thaddeus Lowe (Stuart Whitman) persuades President Abraham Lincoln to authorize the use of giant, hydrogen-filled balloons as aerial observation platforms for spying on Confederate troop emplacements.

It's a daring, innovative venture, creating risks for high flying Lowe, his young assistant Davey Stevens (Vincent Van Patten) and friendly rival John Forrest (Darren McGavin).

"Happy Trails" with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans

Roy Rogers and Dale Evans talk about "Saga of Death Valley," Roy's eighth western (of nine) released in 1939.

In this hard-riding, two-fisted shoot 'em up, Roy gallops to the rescue of beleaguered folks in Death Valley. They're on the edge of ruin because a crook named Tasker (Frank M. Thomas) is overpricing their water—which he controls. Roy's saddle pal is the shaggy Gabby Hayes. If scene stealing were a crime, Gabby would have been a lifer.

Roy's sweetie is played by Doris Day. She is not, however, the freckled blonde comedienne of future films. The Doris Day of "Saga of Death Valley" went on to modest success in "Village Barn Dance," "Thou Shalt Not Kill," "Federal Fugitive" and finally "Mr. Celebrity" in 1942.

THE KID PLUS The Idle Class

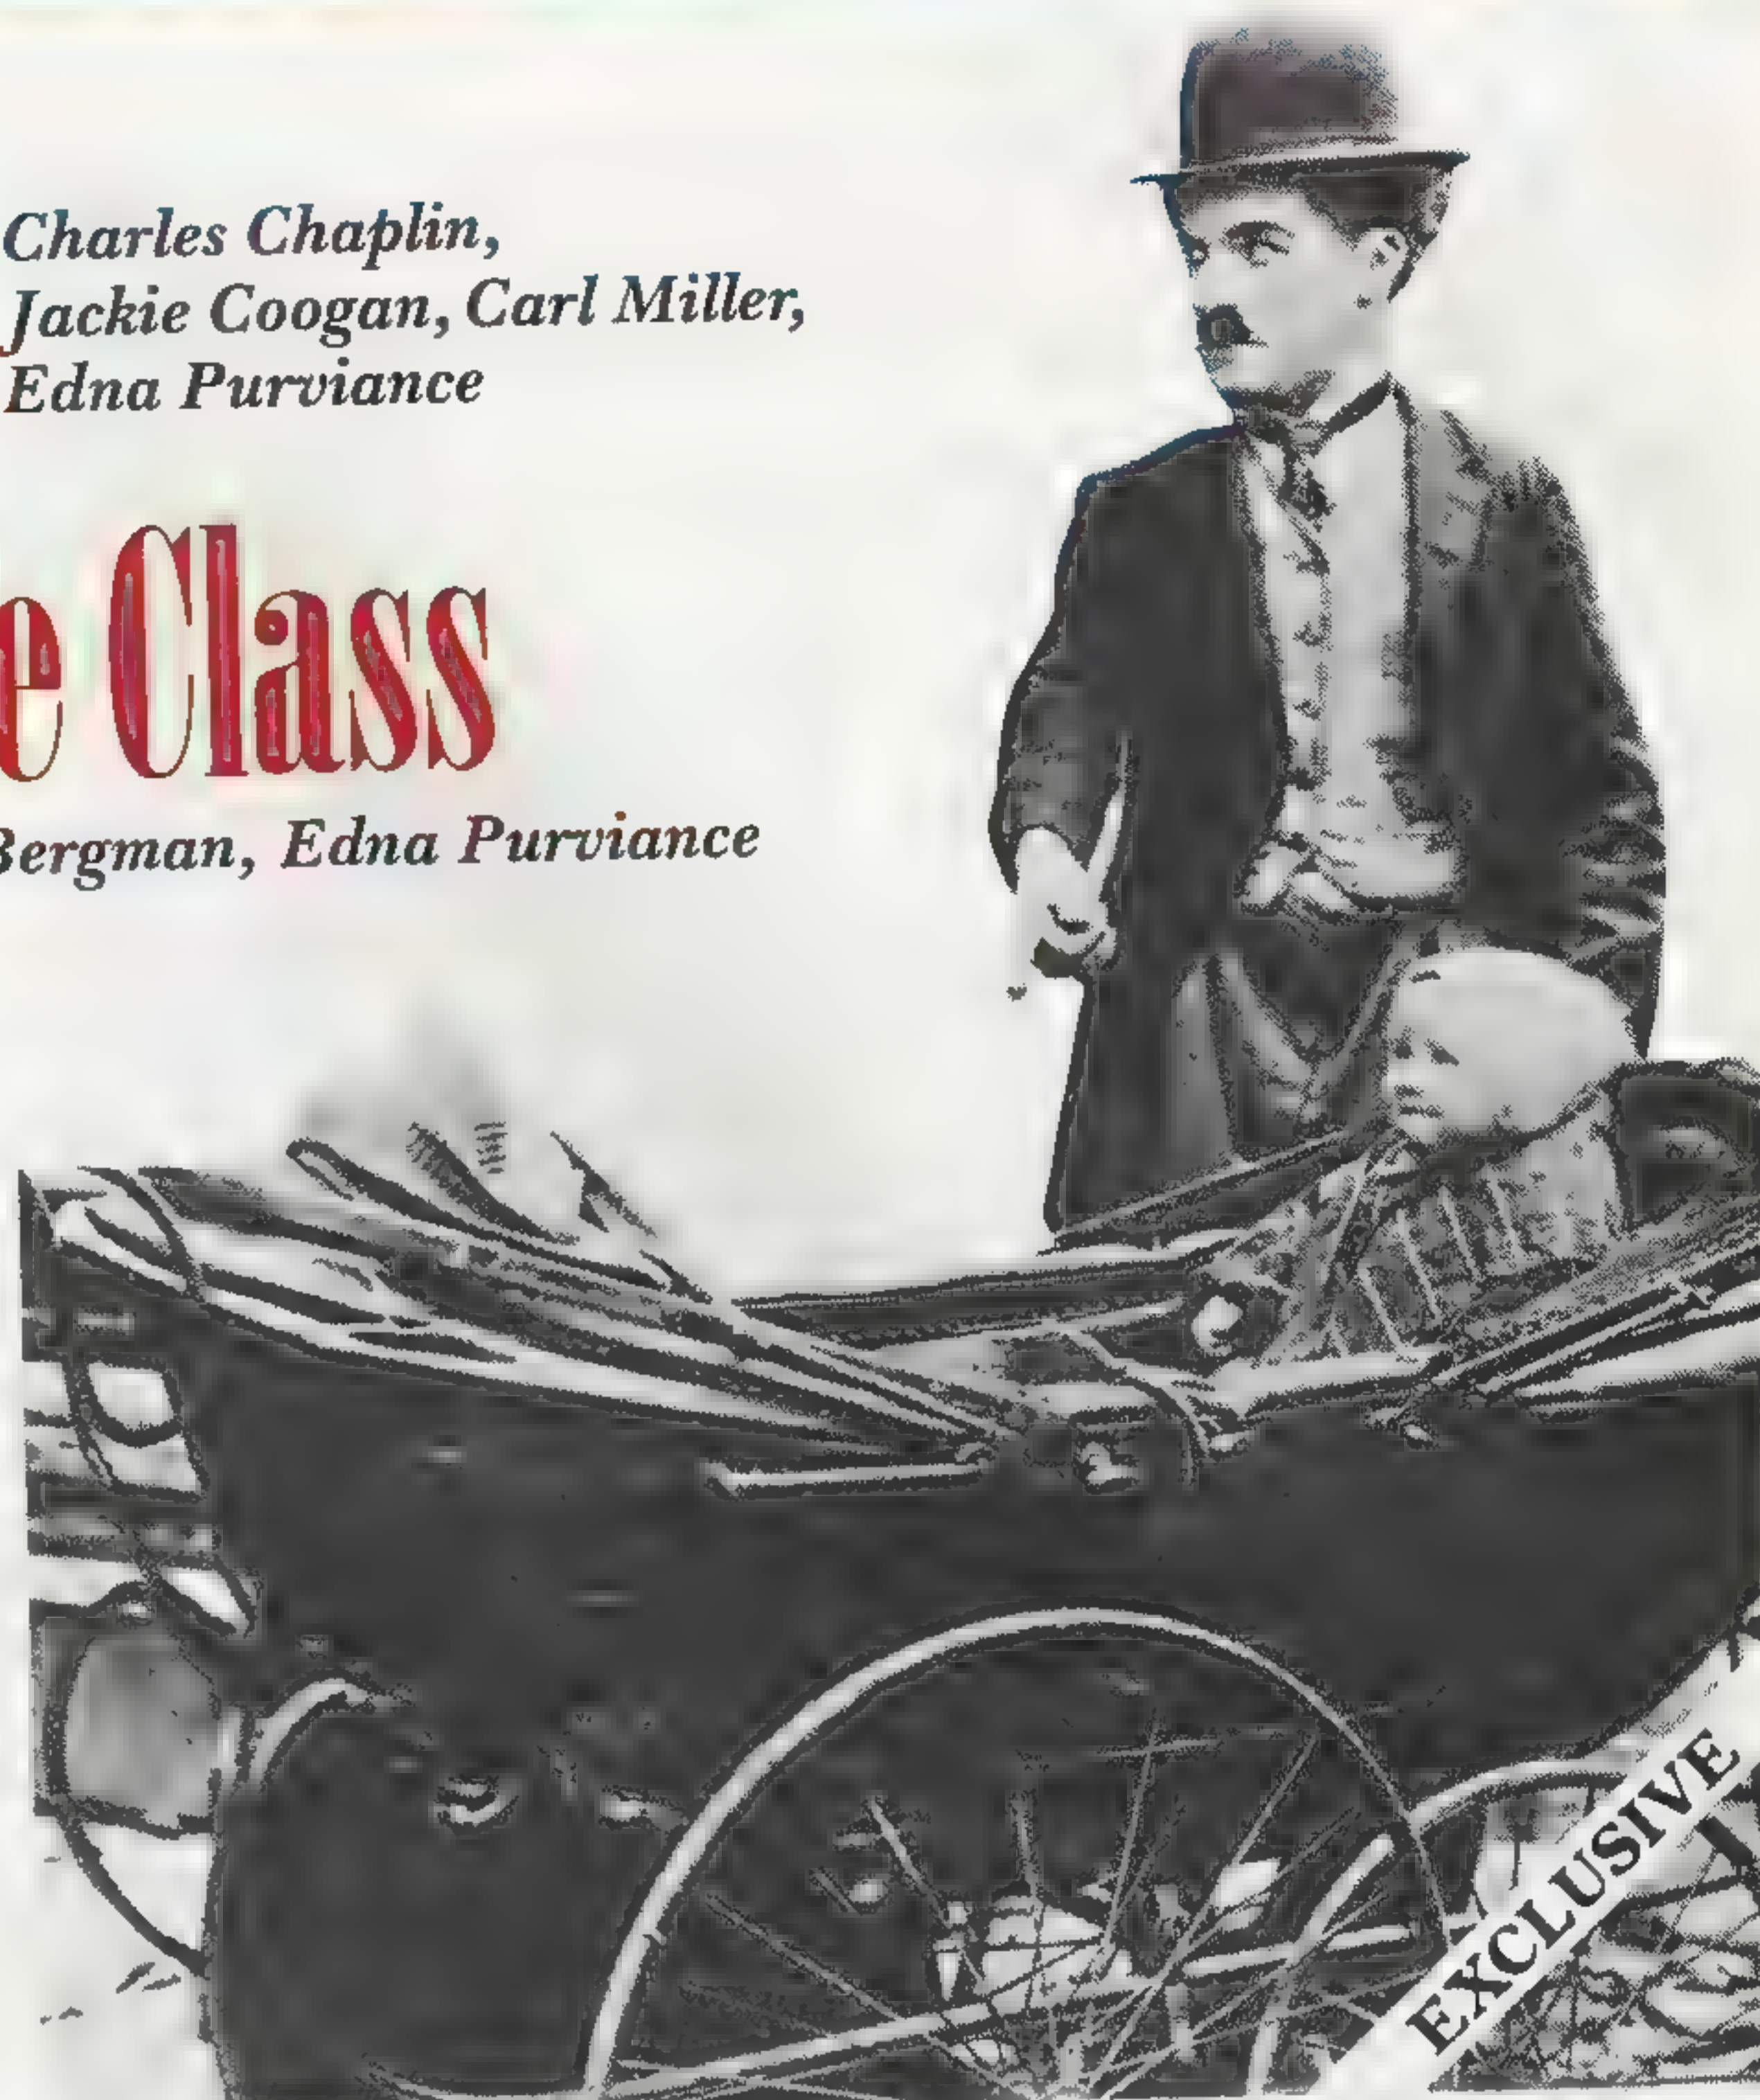

Charles Chaplin,
Jackie Coogan, Carl Miller,
Edna Purviance

Charles Chaplin, Henry Bergman, Edna Purviance

"The Kid" was Charlie Chaplin's first effort as writer, director and star of a feature-length film. It was also his first attempt to make a picture that had, in his words, "a smile and perhaps a tear." The combination was so successful it has become a hallmark of his work.

Charlie plays an itinerant glass worker who finds an abandoned baby boy and raises him as a helper. The kid's job is to break windows so Charlie can replace them for a fee. Authorities, busybodies and finally the kid's long lost mother separate them. Charlie, exhausted in his search for the child, falls asleep and dreams of heaven. A surprise awaits him when he awakens.

"'The Kid' may be counted a screen masterpiece," wrote Theatre Maga-

Charlie finds the baby who'll grow to be "The Kid" zine's critic when the picture premiered in 1921. A special delight, then and now, was five-year-old Jackie Coogan in the title role. Chaplin discovered Jackie in a vaudeville act with his father, and Coogan, Sr. has a small part in the film.

Charlie plays a dual role in "The Idle Class"—a tramp who's mistaken by a wealthy beauty for her husband.

Charlie the Tramp can never quite figure out who's doing what to whom, but he makes his statement in the end by kicking a smug old moneybags in the pants.

RELAX AROUND THE PIANO
 WITH STEVE AND HIS GUESTS

Steve Allen's MUSIC ROOM

Steve Allen welcomes Burt Bacharach, Carole Bayer Sager and Anthony Newley

Steve Allen belongs to the small cluster of stars whose names are synonymous with family entertainment. A popular, innovative performer for 40 years, he is welcome wherever he appears. After reading your letters mentioning the kind of programming you prefer, it became clear that Steve would be ideal for The Disney Channel. We got in touch with him and the result is "Steve Allen's Music Room."

In this second show of the series, Steve invites songwriters Burt Bacharach, Carole Bayer Sager and Anthony Newley to gather 'round the piano for an hour of their music. Bill Maher and the Terry Gibbs band are present too.

In addition to being singers, Bacharach's a composer, Sager an Oscar-winning lyricist and Newley a multi-talented performer. They often work with one another, and their music on this program is largely collaborative. Numbers include the theme from "Arthur," "On a Wonderful Day Like Today" and "Make It Easy on Yourself." Newley closes with a song from his stage musical based on the life of Charlie Chaplin, "Remember Me."

No one hosts a more intimate, comfortable, relaxed TV show than Steve. Join the party as he brings good music, conversation and laughter to this once-in-a-lifetime, classic series. May 5, 6, 10, 12, 16, 21, 24, 28, 31

In 1911 the Boyd Farm of New South Wales, Australia has fallen on hard times. Mathew Boyd (Tom Farley) has mortgaged his land. The stables, which housed prize-winning harness racehorses, stand empty.

Then Mathew's grandson

Teddy (Robert Bettles) finds a beautiful yearling colt. Dandy Boy is born to run, and Teddy and his older brother Doone (Andrew McFarlane) train him for a match race—winner to receive a 10,000 pound prize, enough to save the farm. The boys must overcome sabotage from a hired hand and a crooked vet, as well as fierce competition from a pro jockey from Melbourne.

THE EXPLORERS "The Last Shangri-La"

High in the Himalaya mountains, far beyond the stress and pressure of modern society, lies the last Shangri-La—a land without crime, where no man carries a weapon, where all life is respected equally.

Anthropologist Jens Bjerre leads a team of explorers to the hidden Zanskar River valley. There, in a tiny kingdom cut off for six months each year by snowy mountain passes, simple Buddhist tribesmen inhabit the highest permanent settlement on earth. It is truly a place where the legend of Shangri-La is a living reality.

Betty Grable, Robert Young, Adolphe Menjou

(Reginald Gardiner) and a journalist (Robert Young). True love never has taken a more tangled course.

YOU'RE ALWAYS WELCOME ON THE AUSTRALIAN EXPRESS

FIVE MILE CREEK

Louise Caire Clark, Rod Mullinar, Liz Burch,
Michael Caton, Priscilla Weems, Martin Lewis,
Gus Mercurio, with Jay Kerr as Con Madigan

Every two weeks a new adventure, complete in itself, unfolds on The Disney Channel's exclusively produced dramatic series.

Maggie Scott (Louise Caire Clark)—an American transplanted to the Australian bush during the gold rush of the 1860s—learns of her missing husband's death and realizes she is on her own Down Under. In "Thanksgiving," she plans a turkey and pumpkin pie dinner for her Aussie mates at Five Mile Creek waystation.

Trouble looms when mighty Cobb & Co. threatens to buy the Australian Express stage line. Jack Taylor (Rod Mullinar) wants to sell, but American partner Con Madigan (Jay Kerr) has grown attached to his new life at The Haven with Kate Wallace (Liz Burch).

In "The Hangman's Noose," a Robin Hood style bushranger is killed and evidence implicates Jack. He faces the gallows and the hatred of townsfolk who revered the slain bandit. Paddy Malone (Michael Caton), handyman at the Five Mile, employs some Irish blarney to unravel the murder mystery.

Tune in for new episodes from the Australian outback, and meet the characters thousands of viewers already know and love.

A brief, off camera interview with award-winning Australian producer Henry Crawford follows the "Thanksgiving"

We're All Ears

Linda Palmer
Subscriber Services Director

Dear Friends,

I want to tell you about two shows airing this month which I find particularly intriguing and enjoyable.

The first is "Gone Are the Days." It's our second movie produced exclusively for The Disney Channel. I learned a lot about how films progress from an idea to a finished product while this movie was in development. It's really fascinating to see how a story changes and how characters evolve and come to life during filming. For instance, Harvey Korman's character just continued to get funnier every day!

I think you're really going to find this film a very pleasant viewing experience. I know I did!

Another program premiering this month is DTV. It's scheduled to appear regularly. Please don't panic—it's NOT another rock video! We've blended Disney animation with popular music—you'll hear tunes sung by everyone from Elvis to Jan and Dean. The show has a very light, happy feeling to it. I certainly get a lift out of it!

As always, I'd like to know your opinion of the new programs we're creating, so please let me hear from you.

Sincerely,

Linda

Linda Palmer

P.S. When you submit 35mm slides or prints of your children with their pets, please include all their names as well as the name of your local cable operator.

Photos should be clearly marked with subscriber's name, address and cable company. All materials become property of The Disney Channel and cannot be individually acknowledged or returned.

FIVE MILE CREEK

FAN MAIL KEEPS ROLLING IN

I can't say enough about "Five Mile Creek!"

It's great to see two countries working together in such harmony. I also enjoy the chats at the end of each episode. Gives us a chance to learn more about the people involved in creating such a great show!

CHEERS FOR CHAPLIN

I'm so happy that you showed "The Gentleman Tramp." I had heard of Charlie Chaplin and had seen a scene or two from his movies in other programs. I had come to the conclusion that I probably would not like his films. Your documentary was a real eye opener for me.

Barbara DeClue
Albany, OR

I think showing Charlie Chaplin films is an excellent idea. I'm embarrassed to say that at age 27 I'm just beginning to see his films. Your making them available for everyone to watch is a real step in the right direction. Thanks!

SUBSCRIBER REQUESTS

I would like to know how to obtain some promotional items for The Disney Channel.

Alan J. Hylton
San Francisco, CA

We've received a lot of requests for Disney merchandise, so we developed the "Disney Channel Savings Stamps" program. Please see pages 22 and 23 for details.

Do you plan to show any more movies starring Hayley Mills? I've been a fan of hers since I was a teen.

Jackie Emerson
Lodi, CA

Hayley's in "The Parent Trap" this month. Enjoy!

SUBSCRIBERS' SUPERLATIVES FOR CHANNEL PROGRAMS!

Am still in love with The Disney Channel! I know my stress factor must go down by 100% when I watch it. Best channel on TV. (There are no children in our household. I'm 51 and got The Disney Channel for myself!)

Patti Staples
Concord, CA

My family has been viewing The Disney Channel for several months, and we really love it! Many people have the mistaken opinion that it is for young children only. My children are teenagers, and they find The Disney Channel very interesting.

Mrs. Chester Bowlin, Jr.
Beaumont, TX

I'm 13 years old and I really like the topics on EPCOT Magazine. I also enjoy getting a chance to see Walt Disney World and EPCOT Center since I've never been there.

Exploring the Archives

Dave Smith, archivist for Walt Disney Productions, answers questions and provides information about the studio's history and its productions.

Did Walt Disney attend an art school, or was he self-taught? —P.S., Oakhurst, Okla.

Walt Disney attended some evening art classes in Kansas City and Chicago while he was growing up. He seemed to have a natural talent for adding humor to his drawings. After starting his company in Hollywood, however, he came to realize that others could animate better than he, so he turned instead to story work and direction.

Did Disney make any films about the Civil War? —B.G., San Francisco, Calif.

Yes, there were several: "The Great Locomotive Chase" for theaters, and for TV "Willie and the Yank," "Johnny Shiloh," "Million Dollar Dixie Deliverance" and "High Flying Spy" (see page 13).

Darren McGavin in "High Flying Spy"

The segment about the Disney Archives on EPCOT Magazine recently was fascinating. How can a student get in to use the Archives for research?

—R.S., Kissimmee, Florida

The Archives are open by advance appointment to students and magazine writers who are working on specific projects dealing with Disney history. All that's necessary is that they exhaust their local library resources first, then contact me to describe their project and the materials they would like to see.

Hayley Mills and Maureen O'Hara are all eyes in "The Parent Trap"

DISNEY CHANNEL TRIVIA

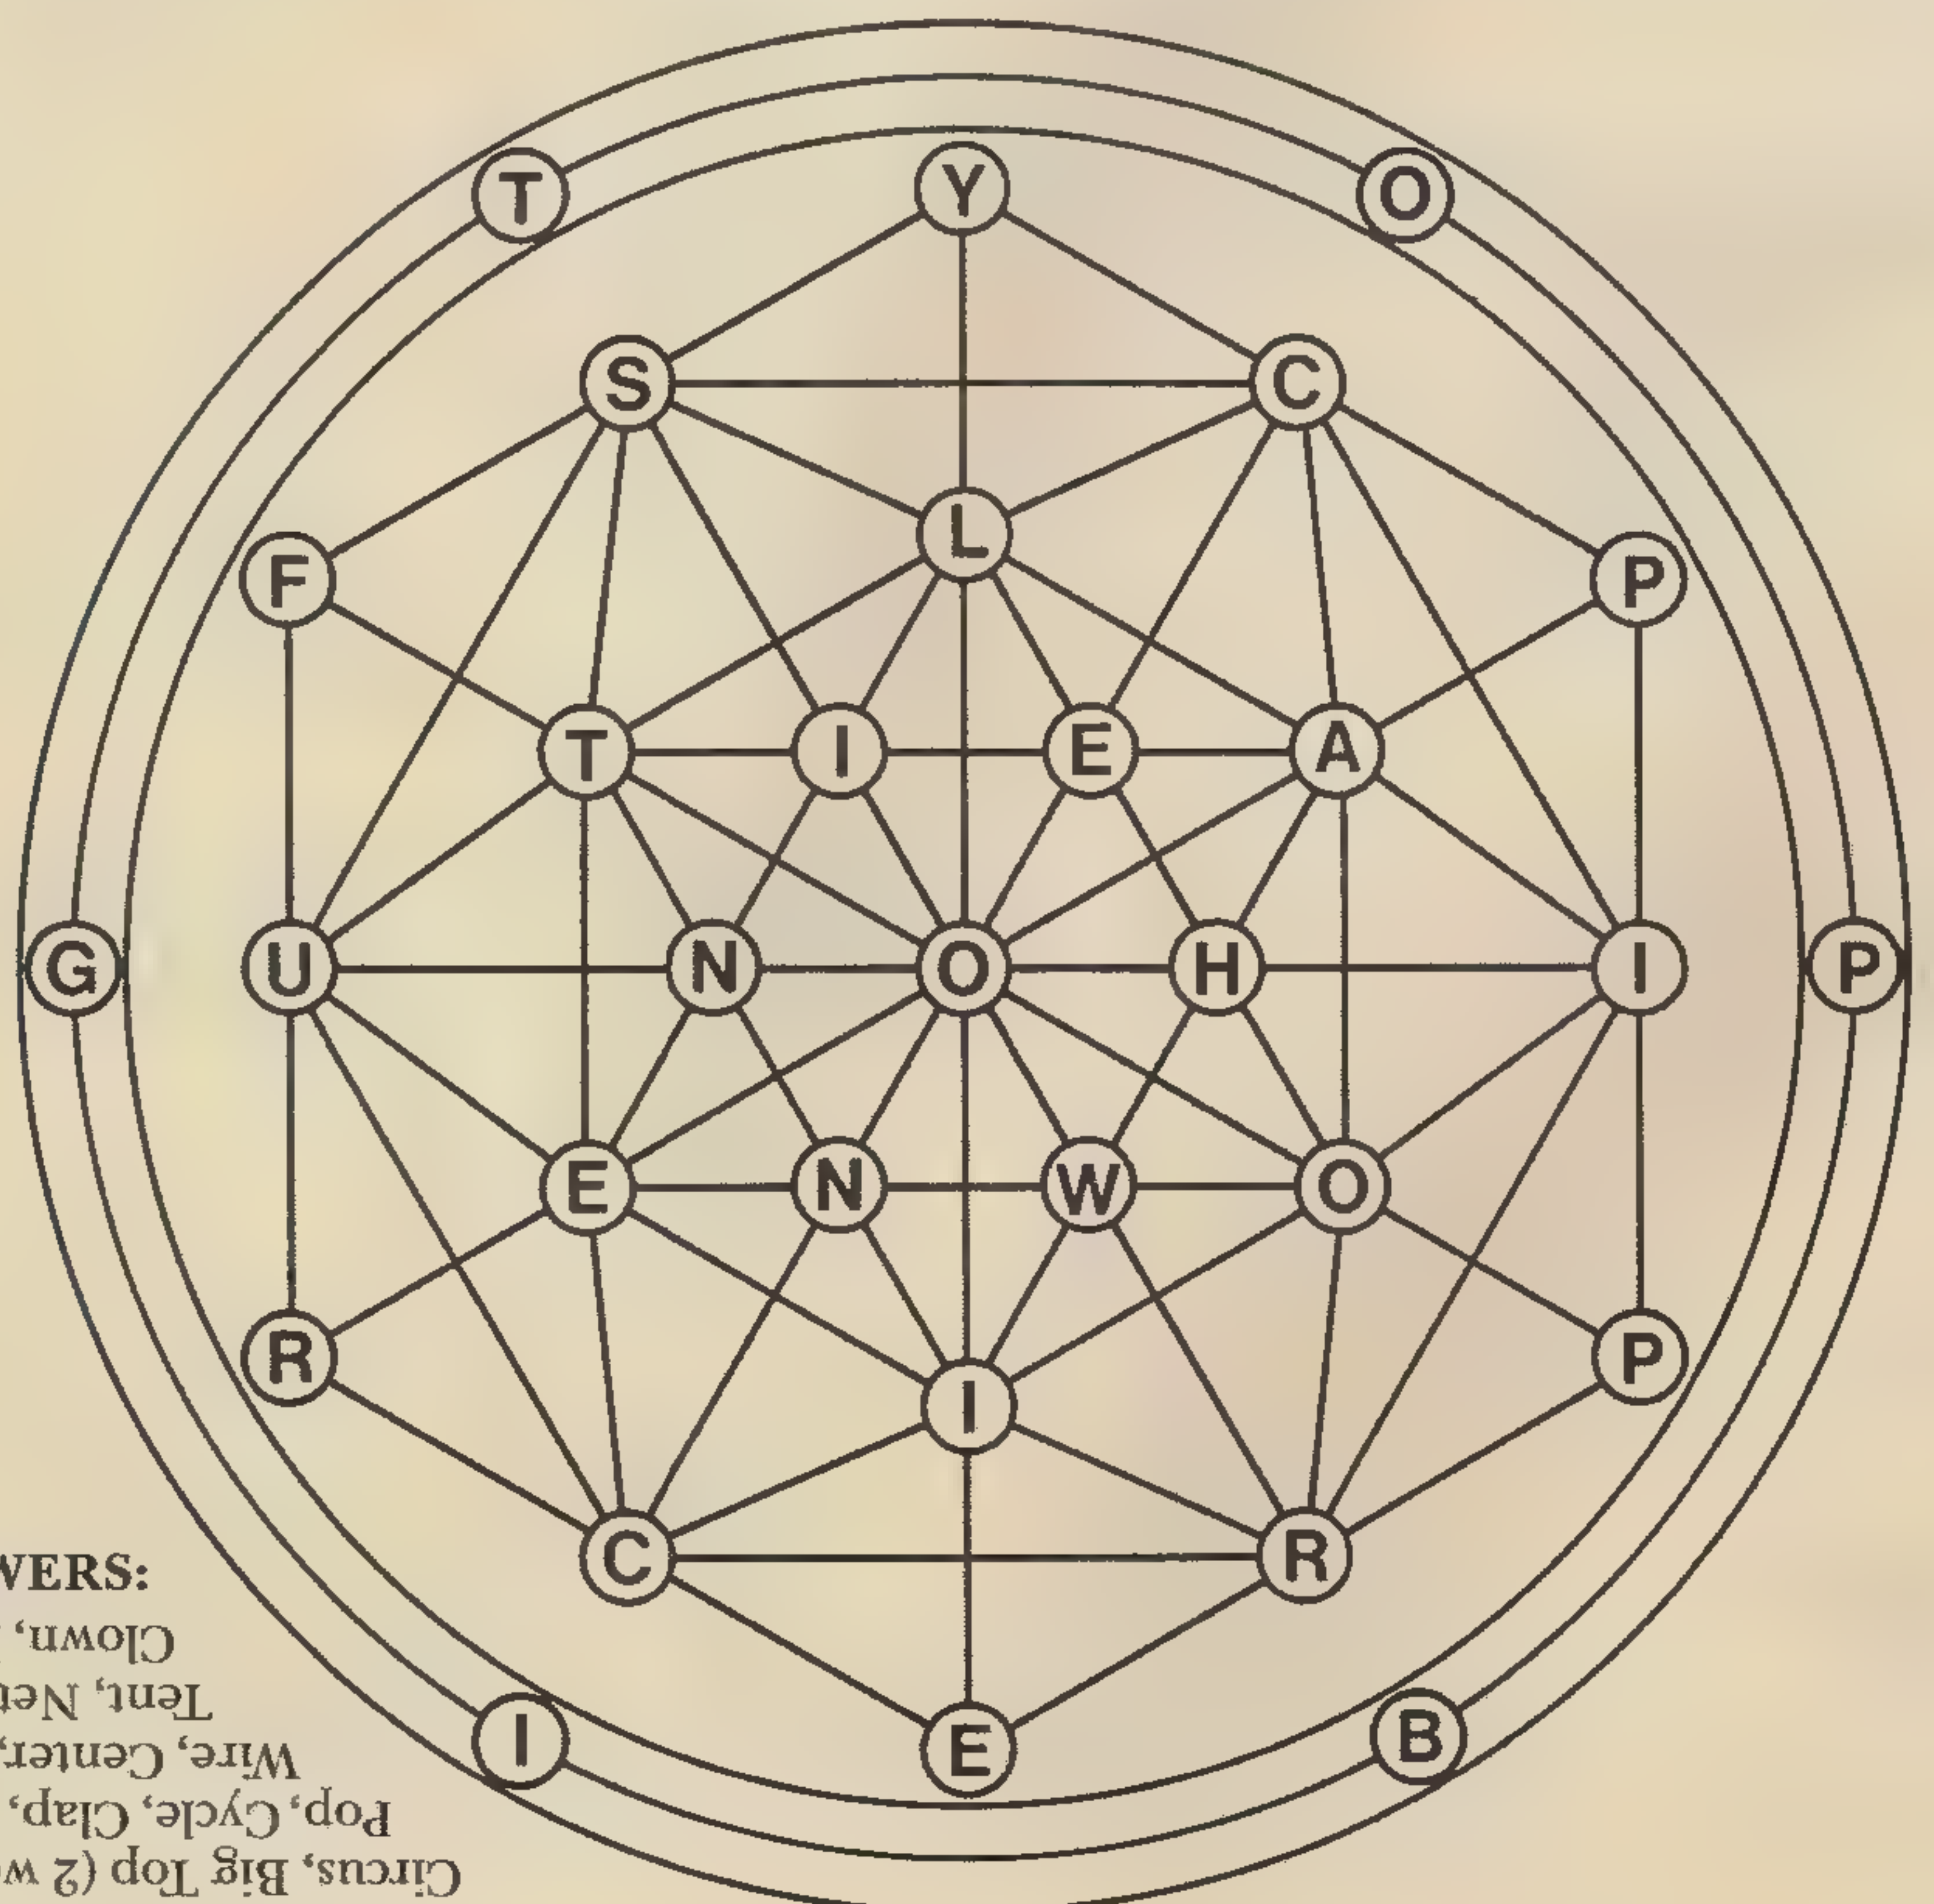

...Most of "The Parent Trap" (see page 6) was filmed at Disney's Golden Oak Ranch in Placerita Canyon, Calif.

...Some of the most opulent settings in a Disney picture enrich "The Magnificent Rebel" (see page 9), the musical biography of composer Ludwig van Beethoven. This was Walt Disney's first film-making venture in Austria and he chose actual locales, many of them unchanged over the centuries, where Beethoven lived, found inspiration, and worked. Karl Boehm, who played Beethoven, was an accomplished pianist who performed his own musical sequences in the film.

SEEING IS APPRECIATING!

In "The Parent Trap," Susan and Sharon learn to imitate each other's mannerisms, likes and dislikes in order to fool their parents.

Every person has habits that make them different and special. But family members sometimes take each other's traits for granted. How carefully have you observed your family? Just for fun have each person answer these teasers.

- (1) Mom or Dad, when you wake the kids in the morning, what do you always say (or do)? What do you do or say every night at bedtime? What do the kids do (or say) at those times?
- (2) Name three maxims people in your family use a lot (i.e. "when it rains it pours," etc.).
- (3) What are the two favorite foods of each person in your family?
- (4) What's your mom's favorite color? Your dad's, sister's, brother's? Do they know yours?
- (5) When (if ever) do the people in your family sing or hum to themselves? (While driving, reading, vacuuming, etc.) Can you name the tune each croons most often?
- (6) Imitate your mom's, dad's, sister's or brother's giggle.
- (7) Describe an action, phrase, habit, etc. for each person in your family that you REALLY LIKE.

PLAY IT AGAIN

Take A Family Vote For Your Film Encore Choice

You've asked to see some of your favorite Disney films again, so we've created PLAY IT AGAIN CINEMA. Here's how it works. Indicate your family's choice of one of these three films by checking the appropriate box on this ballot. The winning film will be announced and shown in August. (Remember, only one ballot per family. Please limit your choice to one of the movies listed here.)

☐ The Wild Country

Steve Forrest, Vera Miles, Jack Elam, Ron Howard

A greenhorn pioneer family stake everything they have on their new Wyoming homestead. Battling unfriendly neighbors and the elements, they display the gallant spirit that tamed the West.

☐ BRISTLE FACE

Brian Keith, Phillip Alford, Jeff Donnell

An orphan boy and a trouble-tracking, fox-hunting hound turn the Tennessee hills upside down with their comic mishaps. Together they prove that being a champ takes more than a pedigree.

☐ BOY VOYAGE!

Fred MacMurray, Jane Wyman, Michael Callan, Deborah Walley

A typical midwestern family set out on a luxury cruise to Europe. Some surprising romantic entanglements lead to a lot more comedy, confusion and color than any travel agent ever promised!

Donald's CHANNEL CHATTER

There's no use ducking the issue anymore! I've hinted and hinted and now I'm getting worried. So I'll just come right out and say that it's my birthday next month and I want pictures—LOTS OF PICTURES from you. There, that should do it.

Oh, I also wanted to remind you to send in your poems, stories, jokes and puzzles. I like to read as much as I like to look at pictures, so let me see what you can do!

Have a special pet at home? Remind Mom and Dad to send in a color photo (35 mm slide or print) of you and your pooch, cat or talking goldfish. (Keep those pictures for SMALL WORLD coming too, of course!)

Let's see, I've reminded you about all the important stuff: my birthday, sending in your poems and stories, my birthday, color photographs of you and your pets and my birthday. That should take care of it. Happy Birthd-- I mean, happy May!

Make Magic With The Edison Twins

This month in "Voices from Beyond" (May 5, 6, 7, 11, 15, 18) the Edison twins show a neighbor how illusions are made to seem real. Of course there's always a very LOGICAL explanation why tricks appear to work, but that's part of the fun! Learn to do the ones here and amaze your pals! But mum's the word—once you've revealed their secrets, they won't seem like magic anymore!

THE HOMESICK PENNY

Show an empty matchbox with the drawer partly open and a penny inside.

Now take the penny out and put it in your pocket.

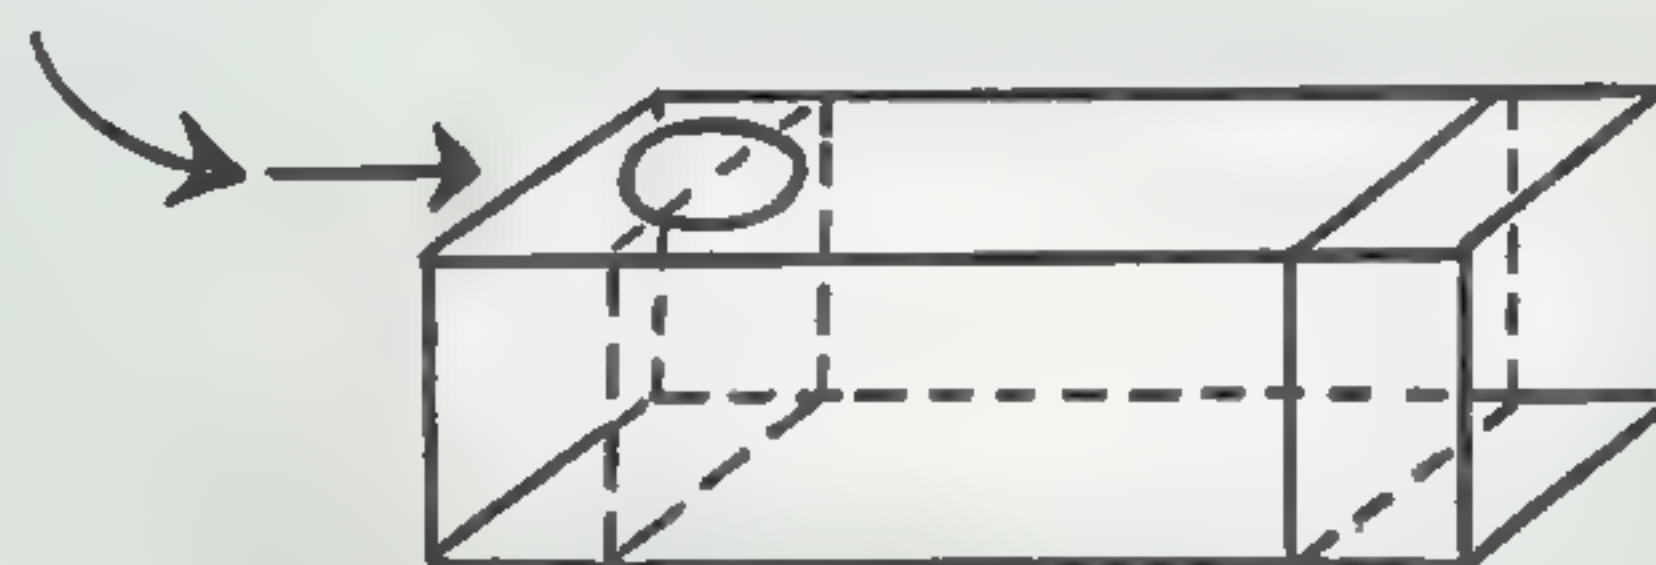

Close the matchbox.

Tell the penny in a loud voice to go home to the matchbox.

Open the drawer. The penny will be home!

Explanation: Open the matchbox drawer halfway and slide a penny on top of the back edge of the drawer, but don't shut the drawer yet. Now put a SECOND penny into the drawer and show it to your friends. After you take the penny out, close the matchbox. The hidden penny will fall into the drawer.

MYSTERIOUS MIND READING

Choose an assistant to help. Leave the room while your friends choose an object. When you return, your assistant points to different things. Amaze everyone by picking out the correct object though no one speaks a word to you!

Explanation: First your assistant points to lots of items. When your assistant FINALLY points to A BLACK OBJECT that is your signal that the NEXT thing he indicates is the correct one.

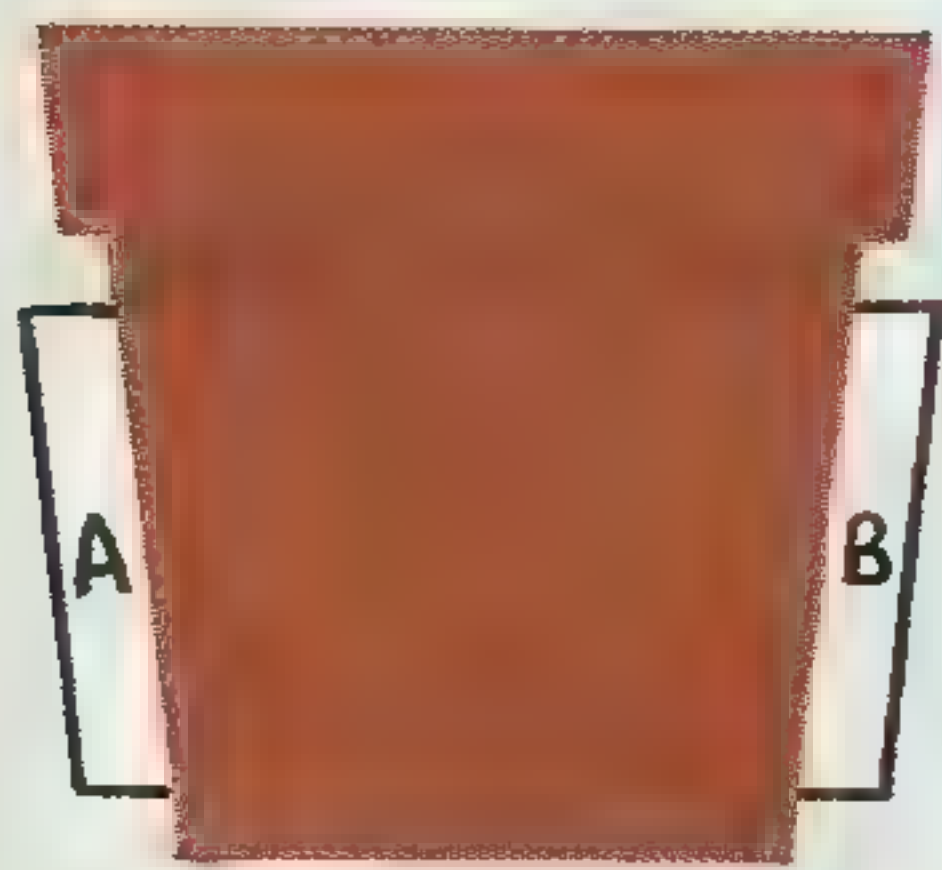

FIND IT IN THE LIBRARY!

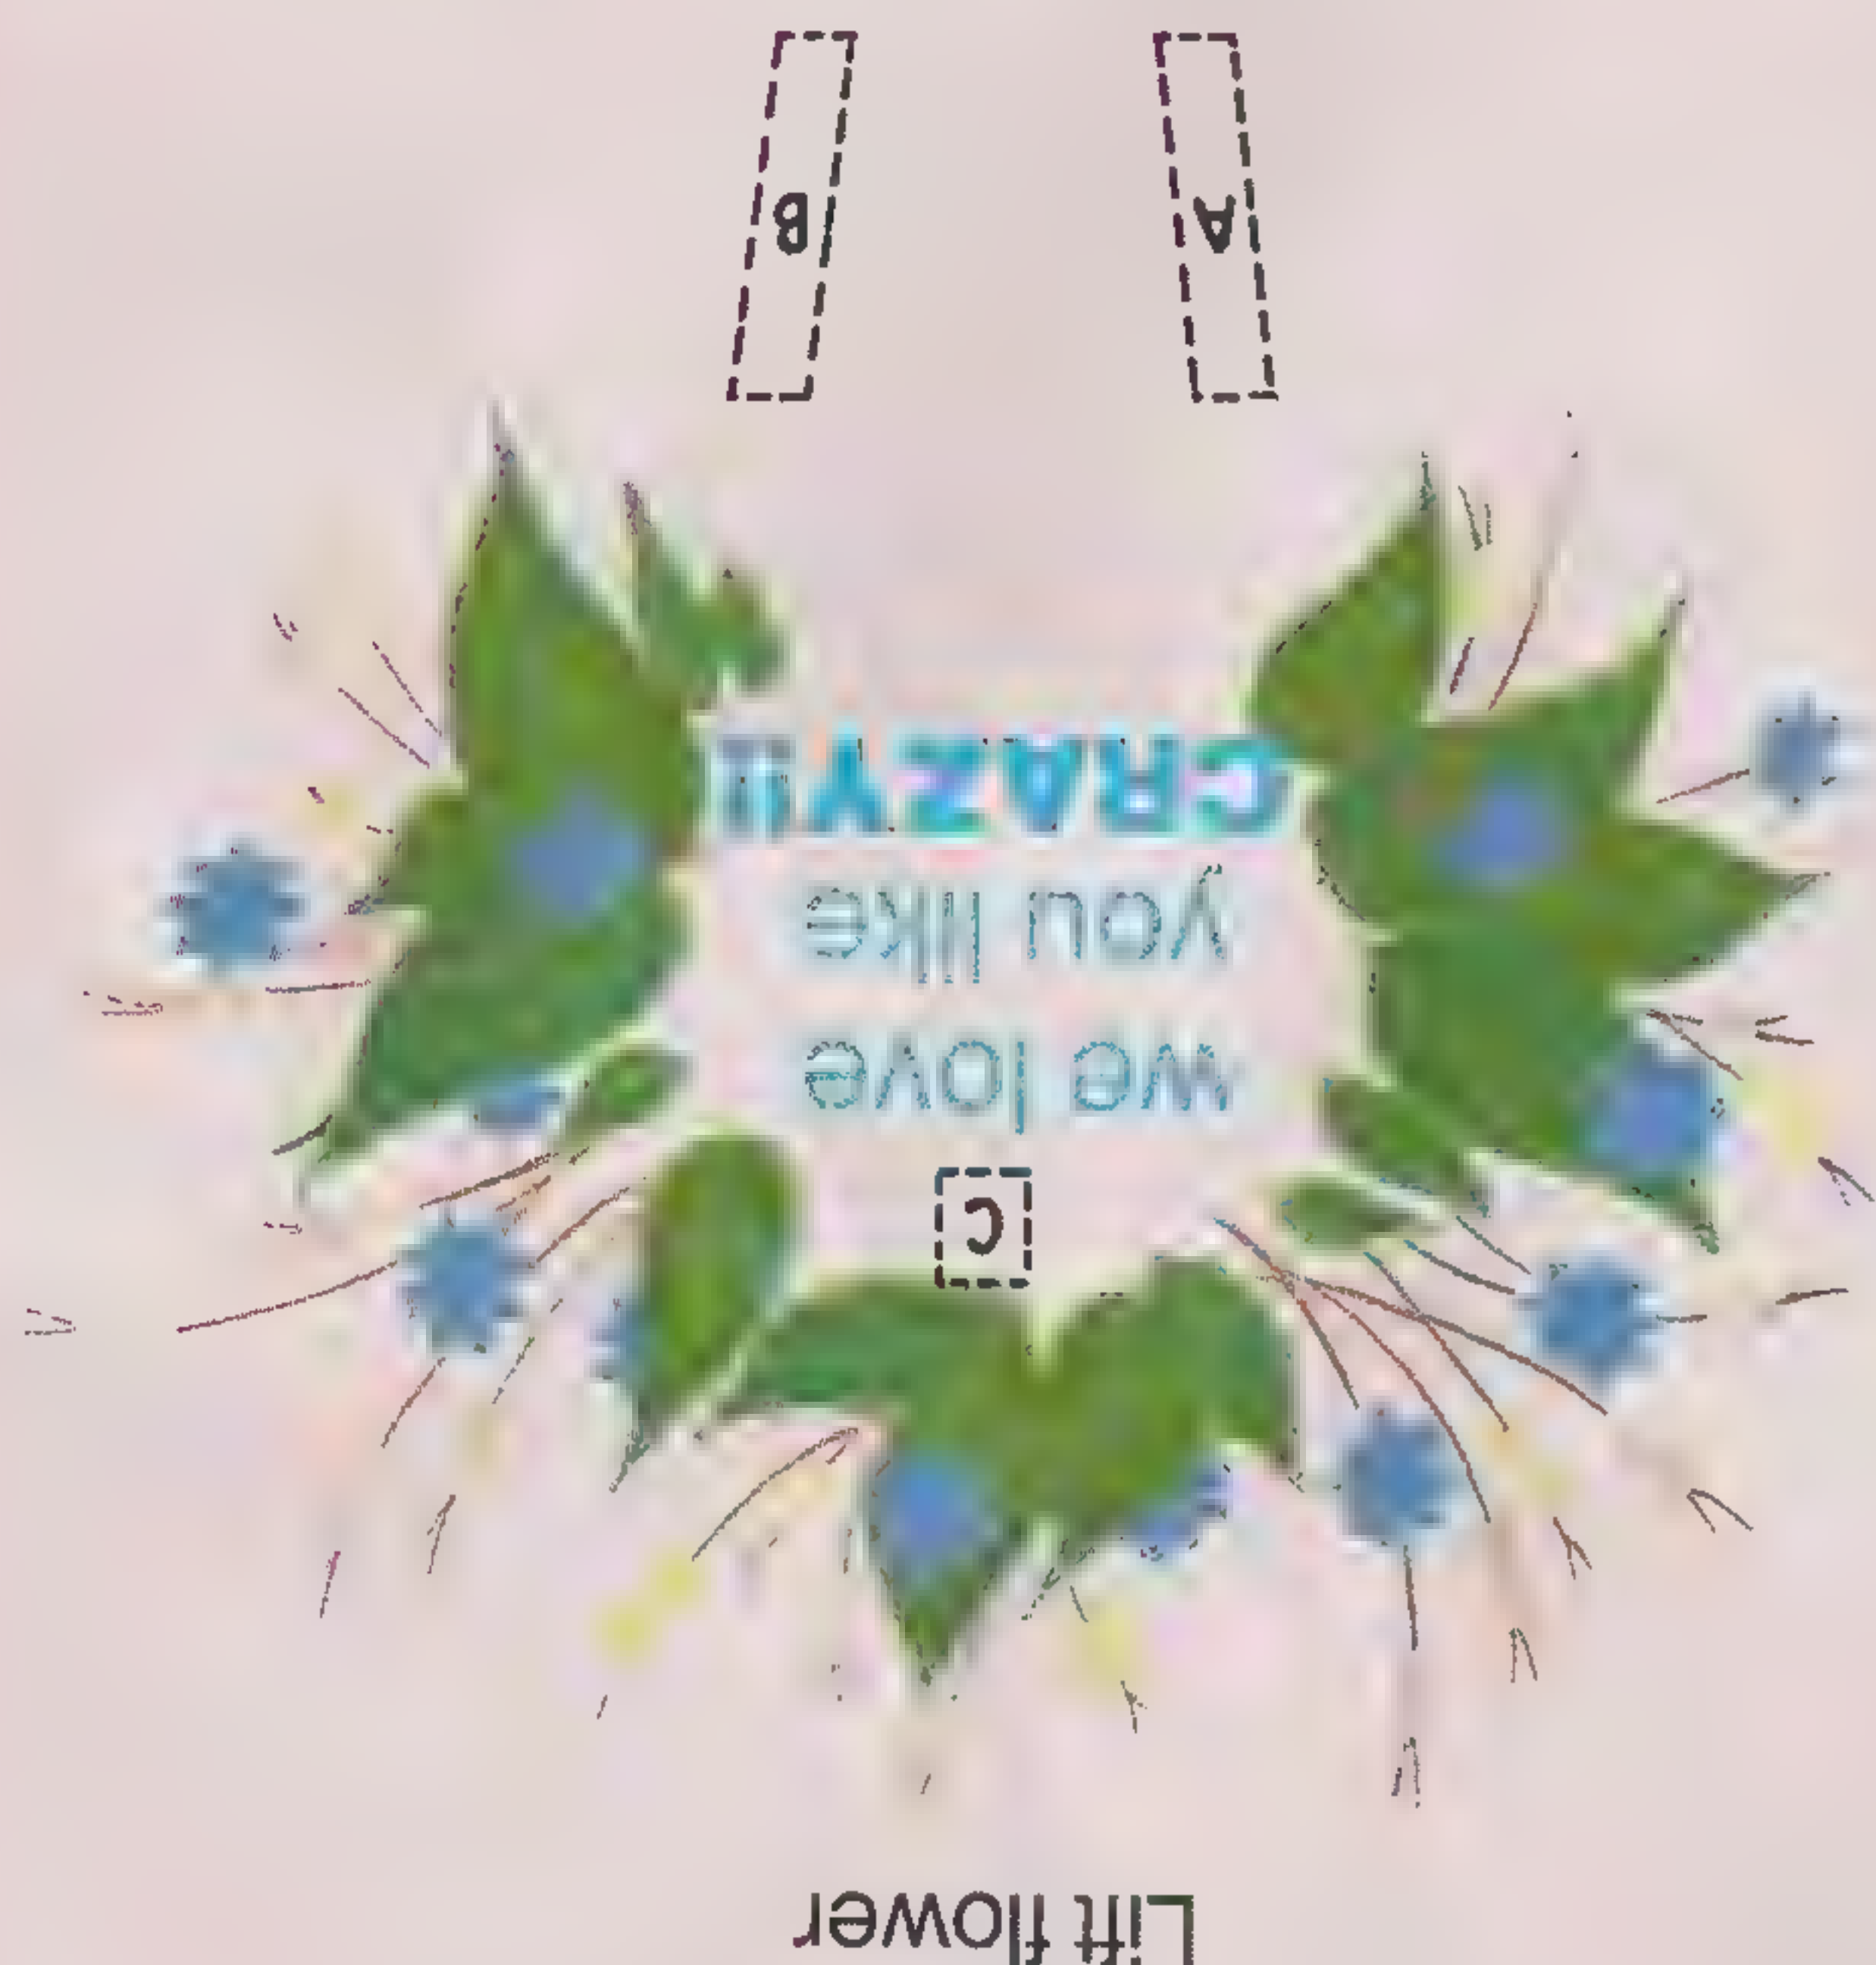

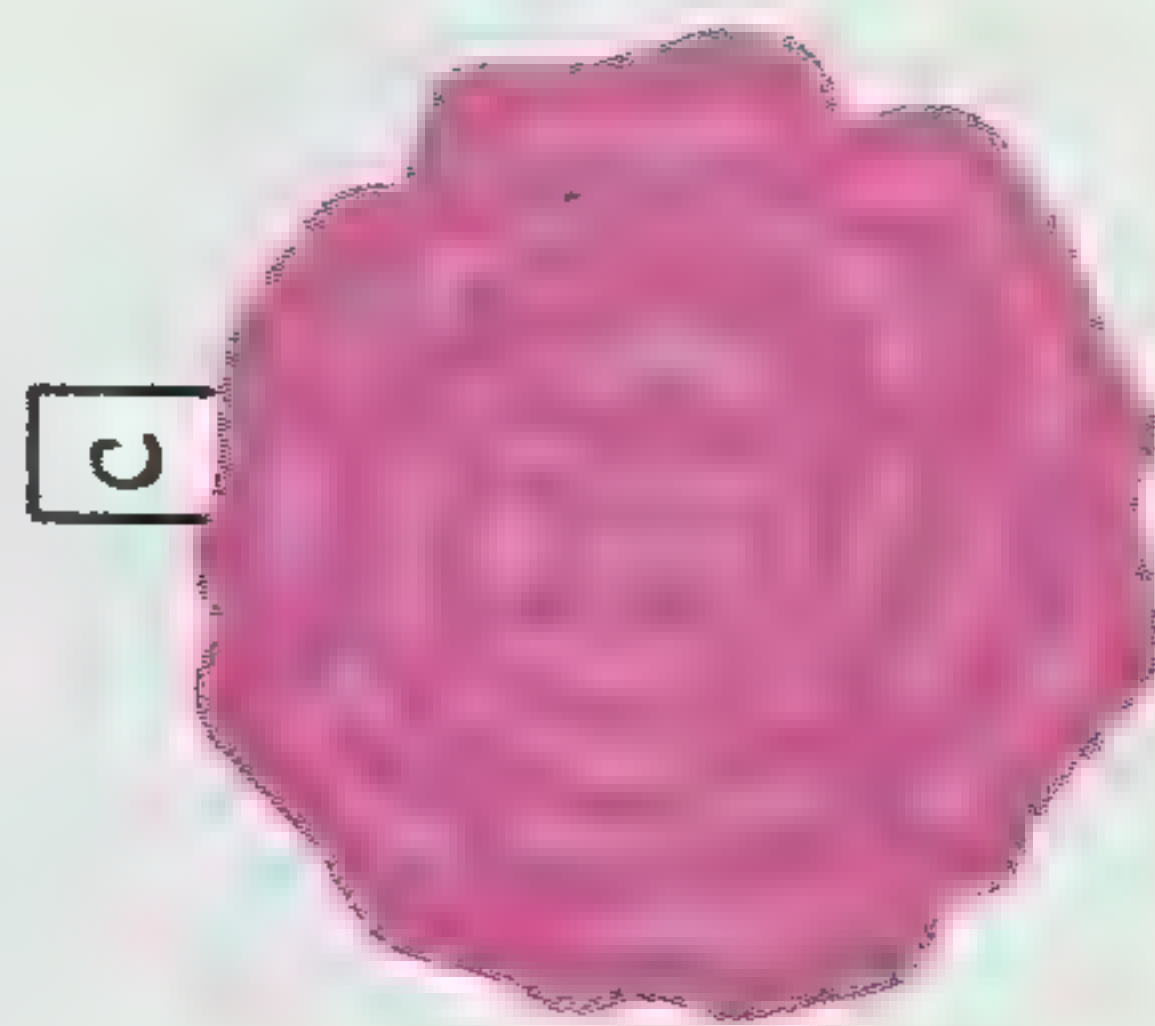

What's as much fun as a three-ring circus? If you guessed books—you're right! Watch these films, then read the books they came from!
TOBY TYLER or 10 WEEKS WITH A CIRCUS from "Toby Tyler" by Otis Kaler

THE ISLAND AT THE TOP OF THE WORLD from "The Lost Ones" by Ian Cameron
THE RED BALLOON from "The Red Balloon" by Albert Lamorisse (PARENTS—This is a wonderful read-aloud book!)

Just for Kids

BE A CLOWN, BE A CLOWN, BE A CLOWN!

All it takes to "clown around" is a little imagination! Once you've created a costume and face that's uniquely yours, think up some funny routines. You can find ideas for easy tricks and gags at your library. Who knows, if you practice enough you may find use for your new skills entertaining the little kids in your neighborhood.

(Be sure to ask permission before borrowing any of the items mentioned here.)

YOUR COSTUME:

1. Old clothes make the easiest costume. Be sure they're loose and baggy. Mix patterns and colors that clash. Sew on big patches with yarn. Whatever you do—EXAGGERATE!

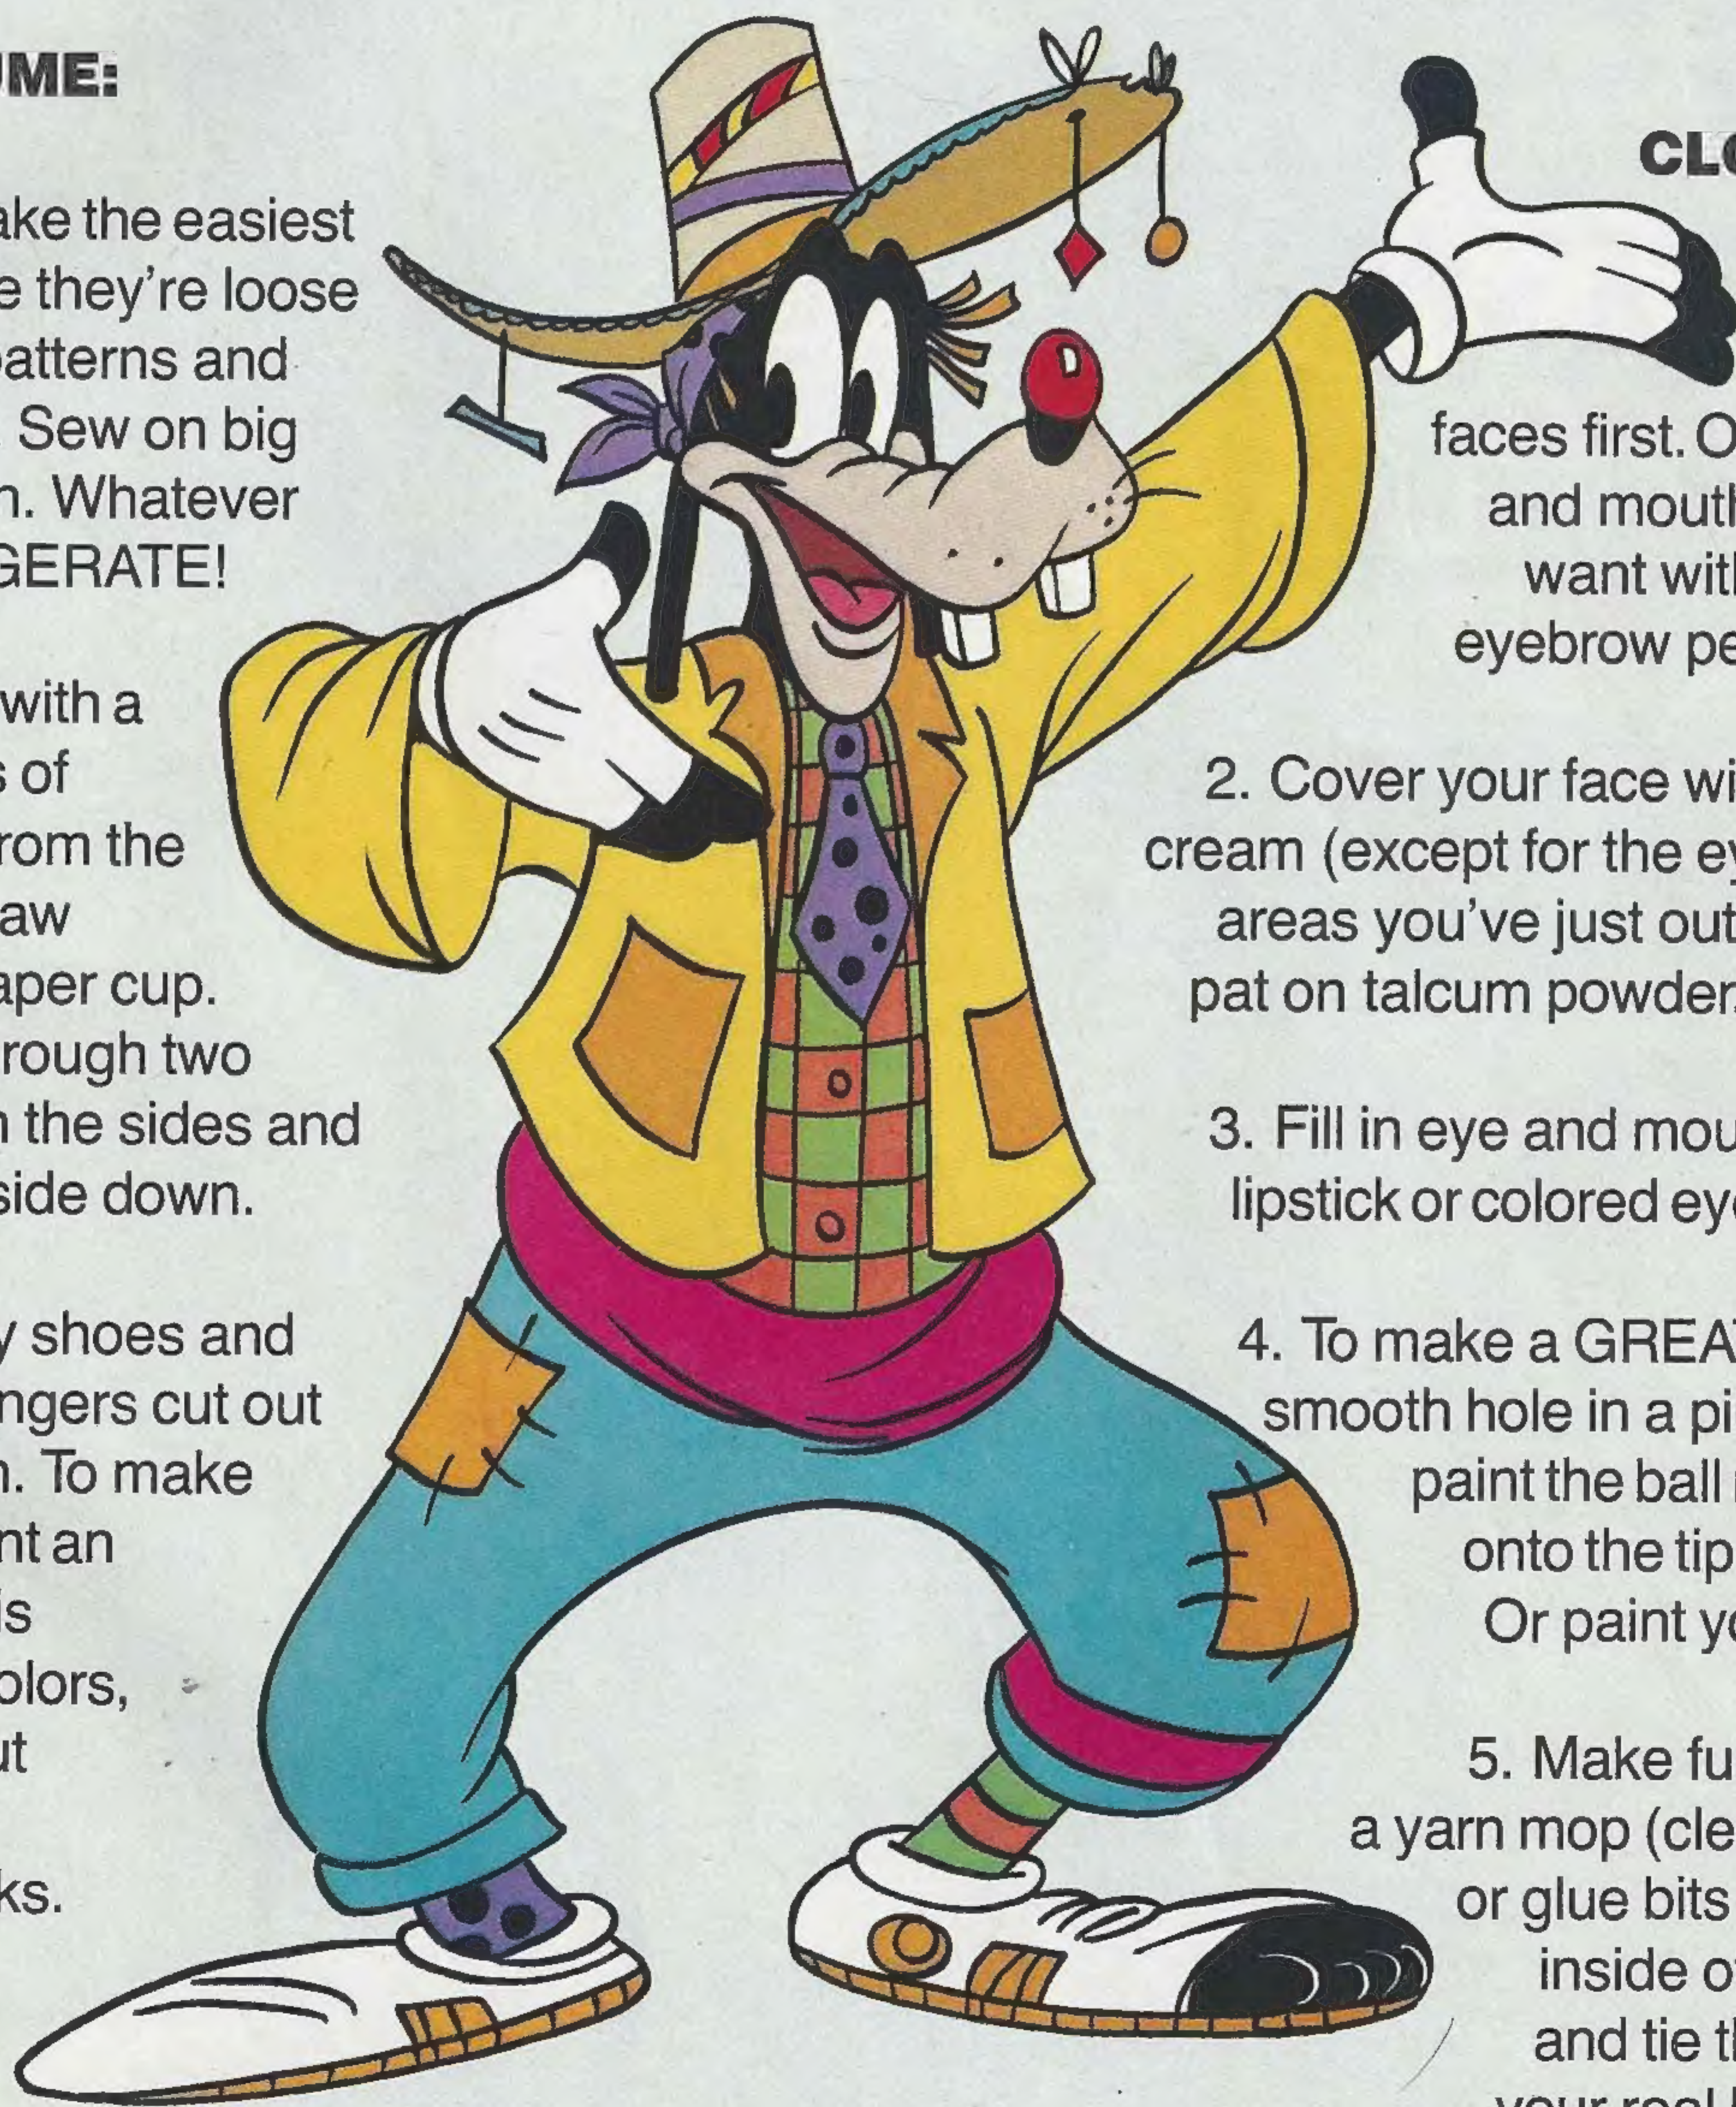

2. Top your outfit with a silly hat. Sew lots of dangling things from the brim of an old straw hat. Or paint a paper cup. Thread elastic through two holes punched in the sides and wear the cup upside down.

3. Add big, floppy shoes and gloves with the fingers cut out for the final touch. To make clown shoes, paint an OLD pair of tennis shoes in bright colors, or cut the toes out and wear mismatched socks.

WATCH CIRCUS,

May 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 19, 22, 25, 28, 30 and

TOBY TYLER, OR 10 WEEKS WITH A CIRCUS, May 1, 3, 6, 8, 10, 15, 18, 20, 26, 28, 30.

YOUR CLOWN FACE:

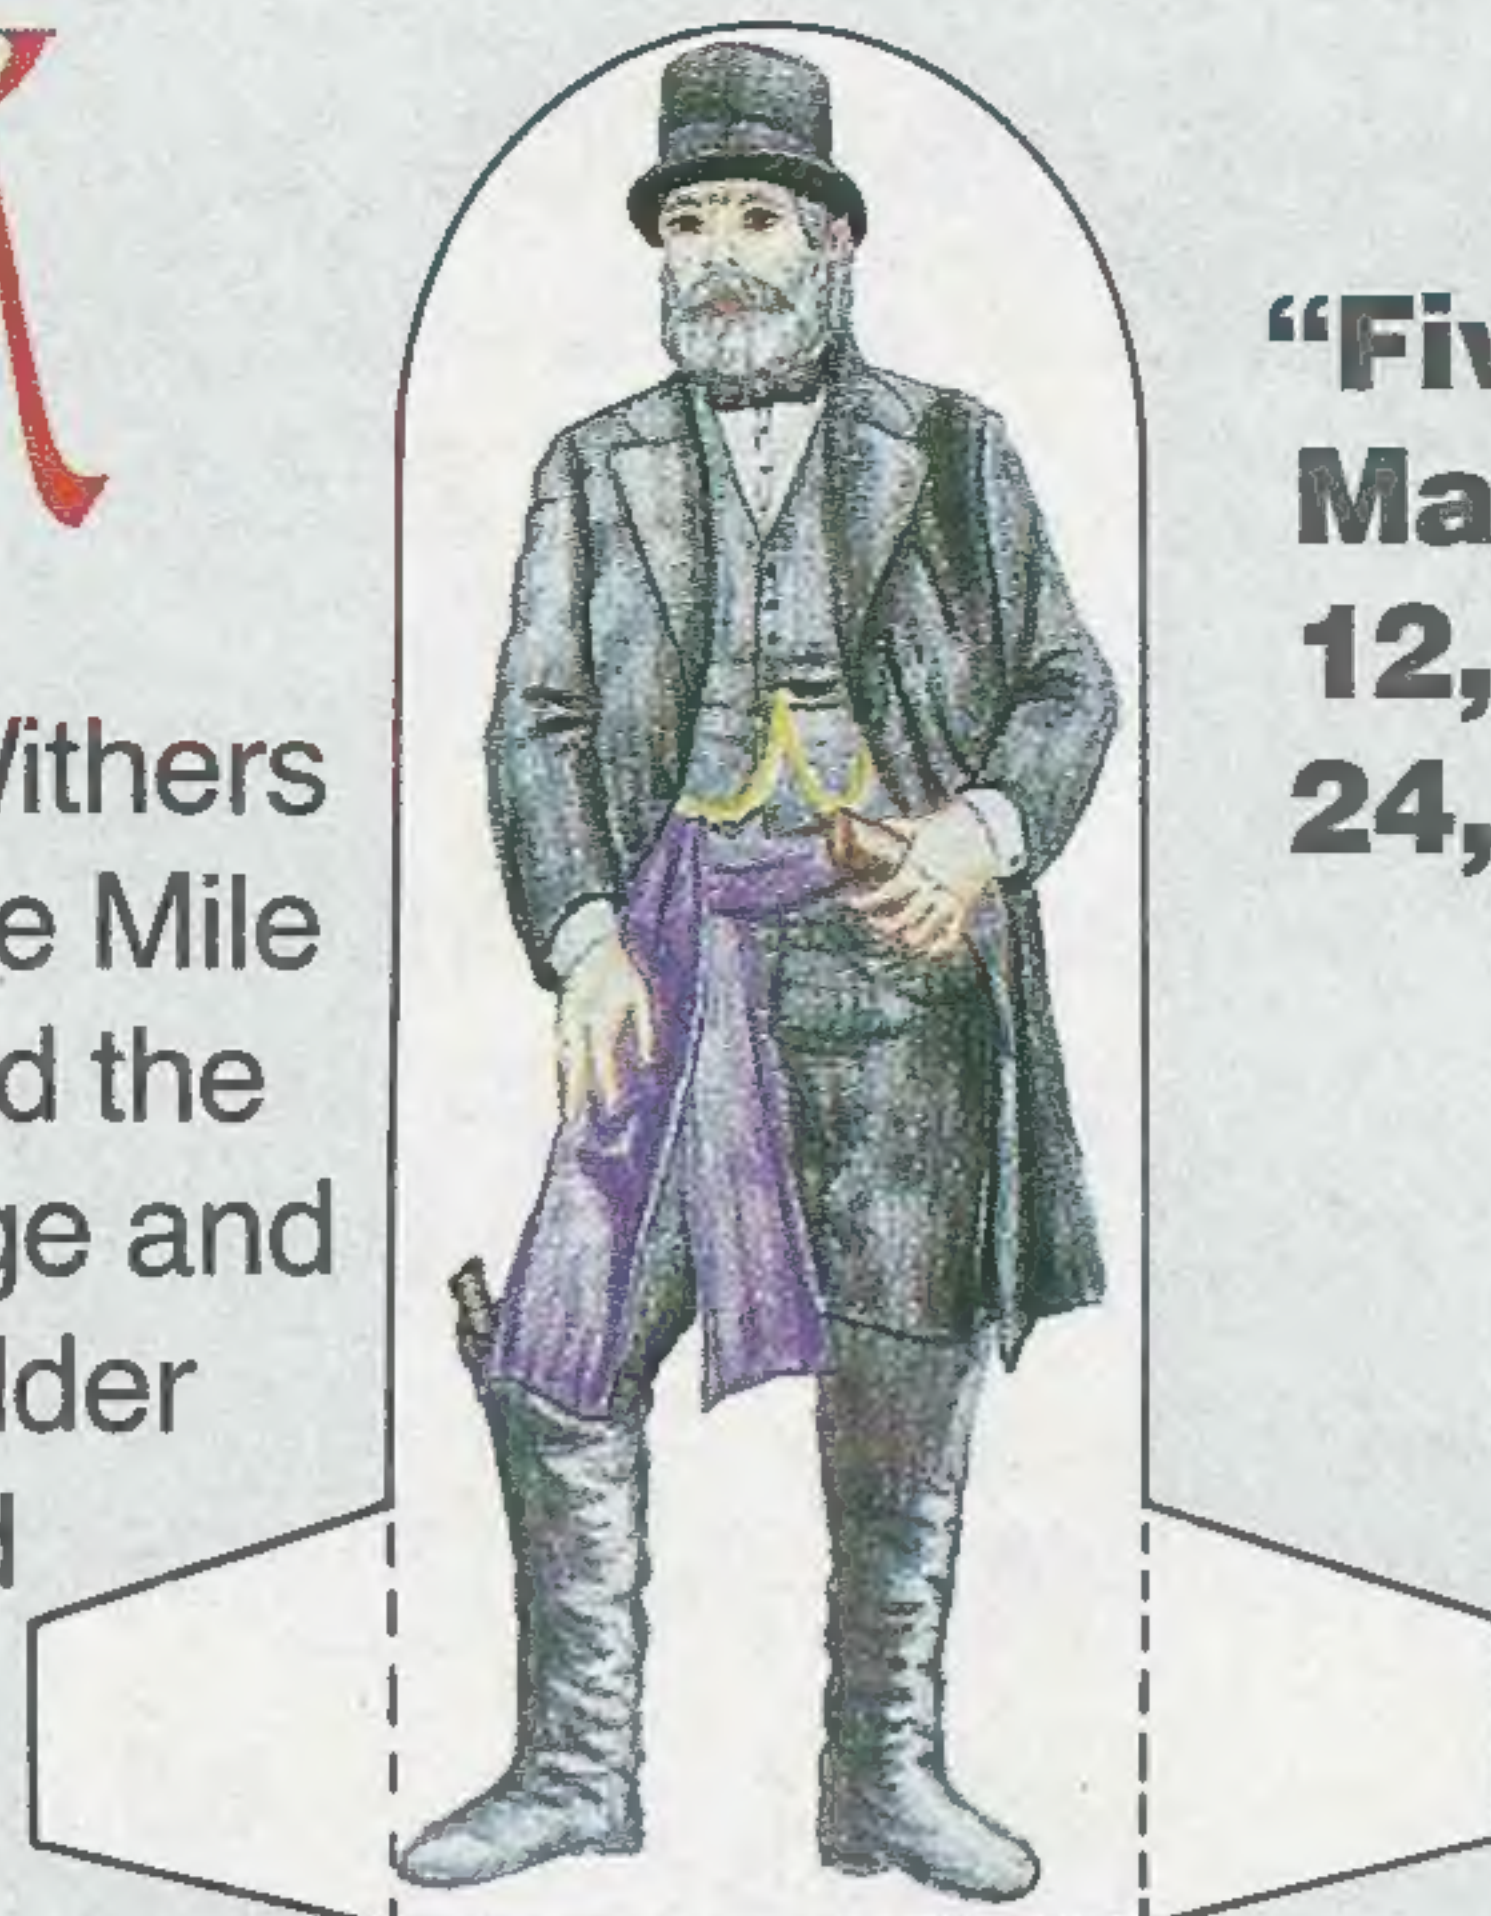

1. Practice making faces first. Outline the eye and mouth shapes you want with a soft, dark eyebrow pencil.
2. Cover your face with a little cold cream (except for the eye and mouth areas you've just outlined). Gently pat on talcum powder.
3. Fill in eye and mouth areas with lipstick or colored eyebrow pencil.
4. To make a GREAT nose, cut a smooth hole in a ping-pong ball, paint the ball red and slip it onto the tip of your nose. Or paint your nose red.
5. Make funny hair from a yarn mop (clean of course) or glue bits of yarn to the inside of an old scarf and tie the scarf over your real hair to hide it.

FIVE MILE CREEK Movie Set

Add Backer Bowman, Ben Jones, Mr. Withers and the bank at Port Nelson to your "Five Mile Creek" collection. After you've completed the activity on the other side, cut out this page and glue it to lightweight cardboard. (A file folder works well.) Cut pieces on solid lines, and fold on dotted lines. Your stagecoach can now travel between Port Nelson and Five Mile Creek. But watch out for Backer Bowman along the way!

This summer, THE LOVE BUG is gonna getcha!

Herbie is an everyday, garden variety Volkswagen with a single (and rather remarkable) exception—he has a mind of his own.

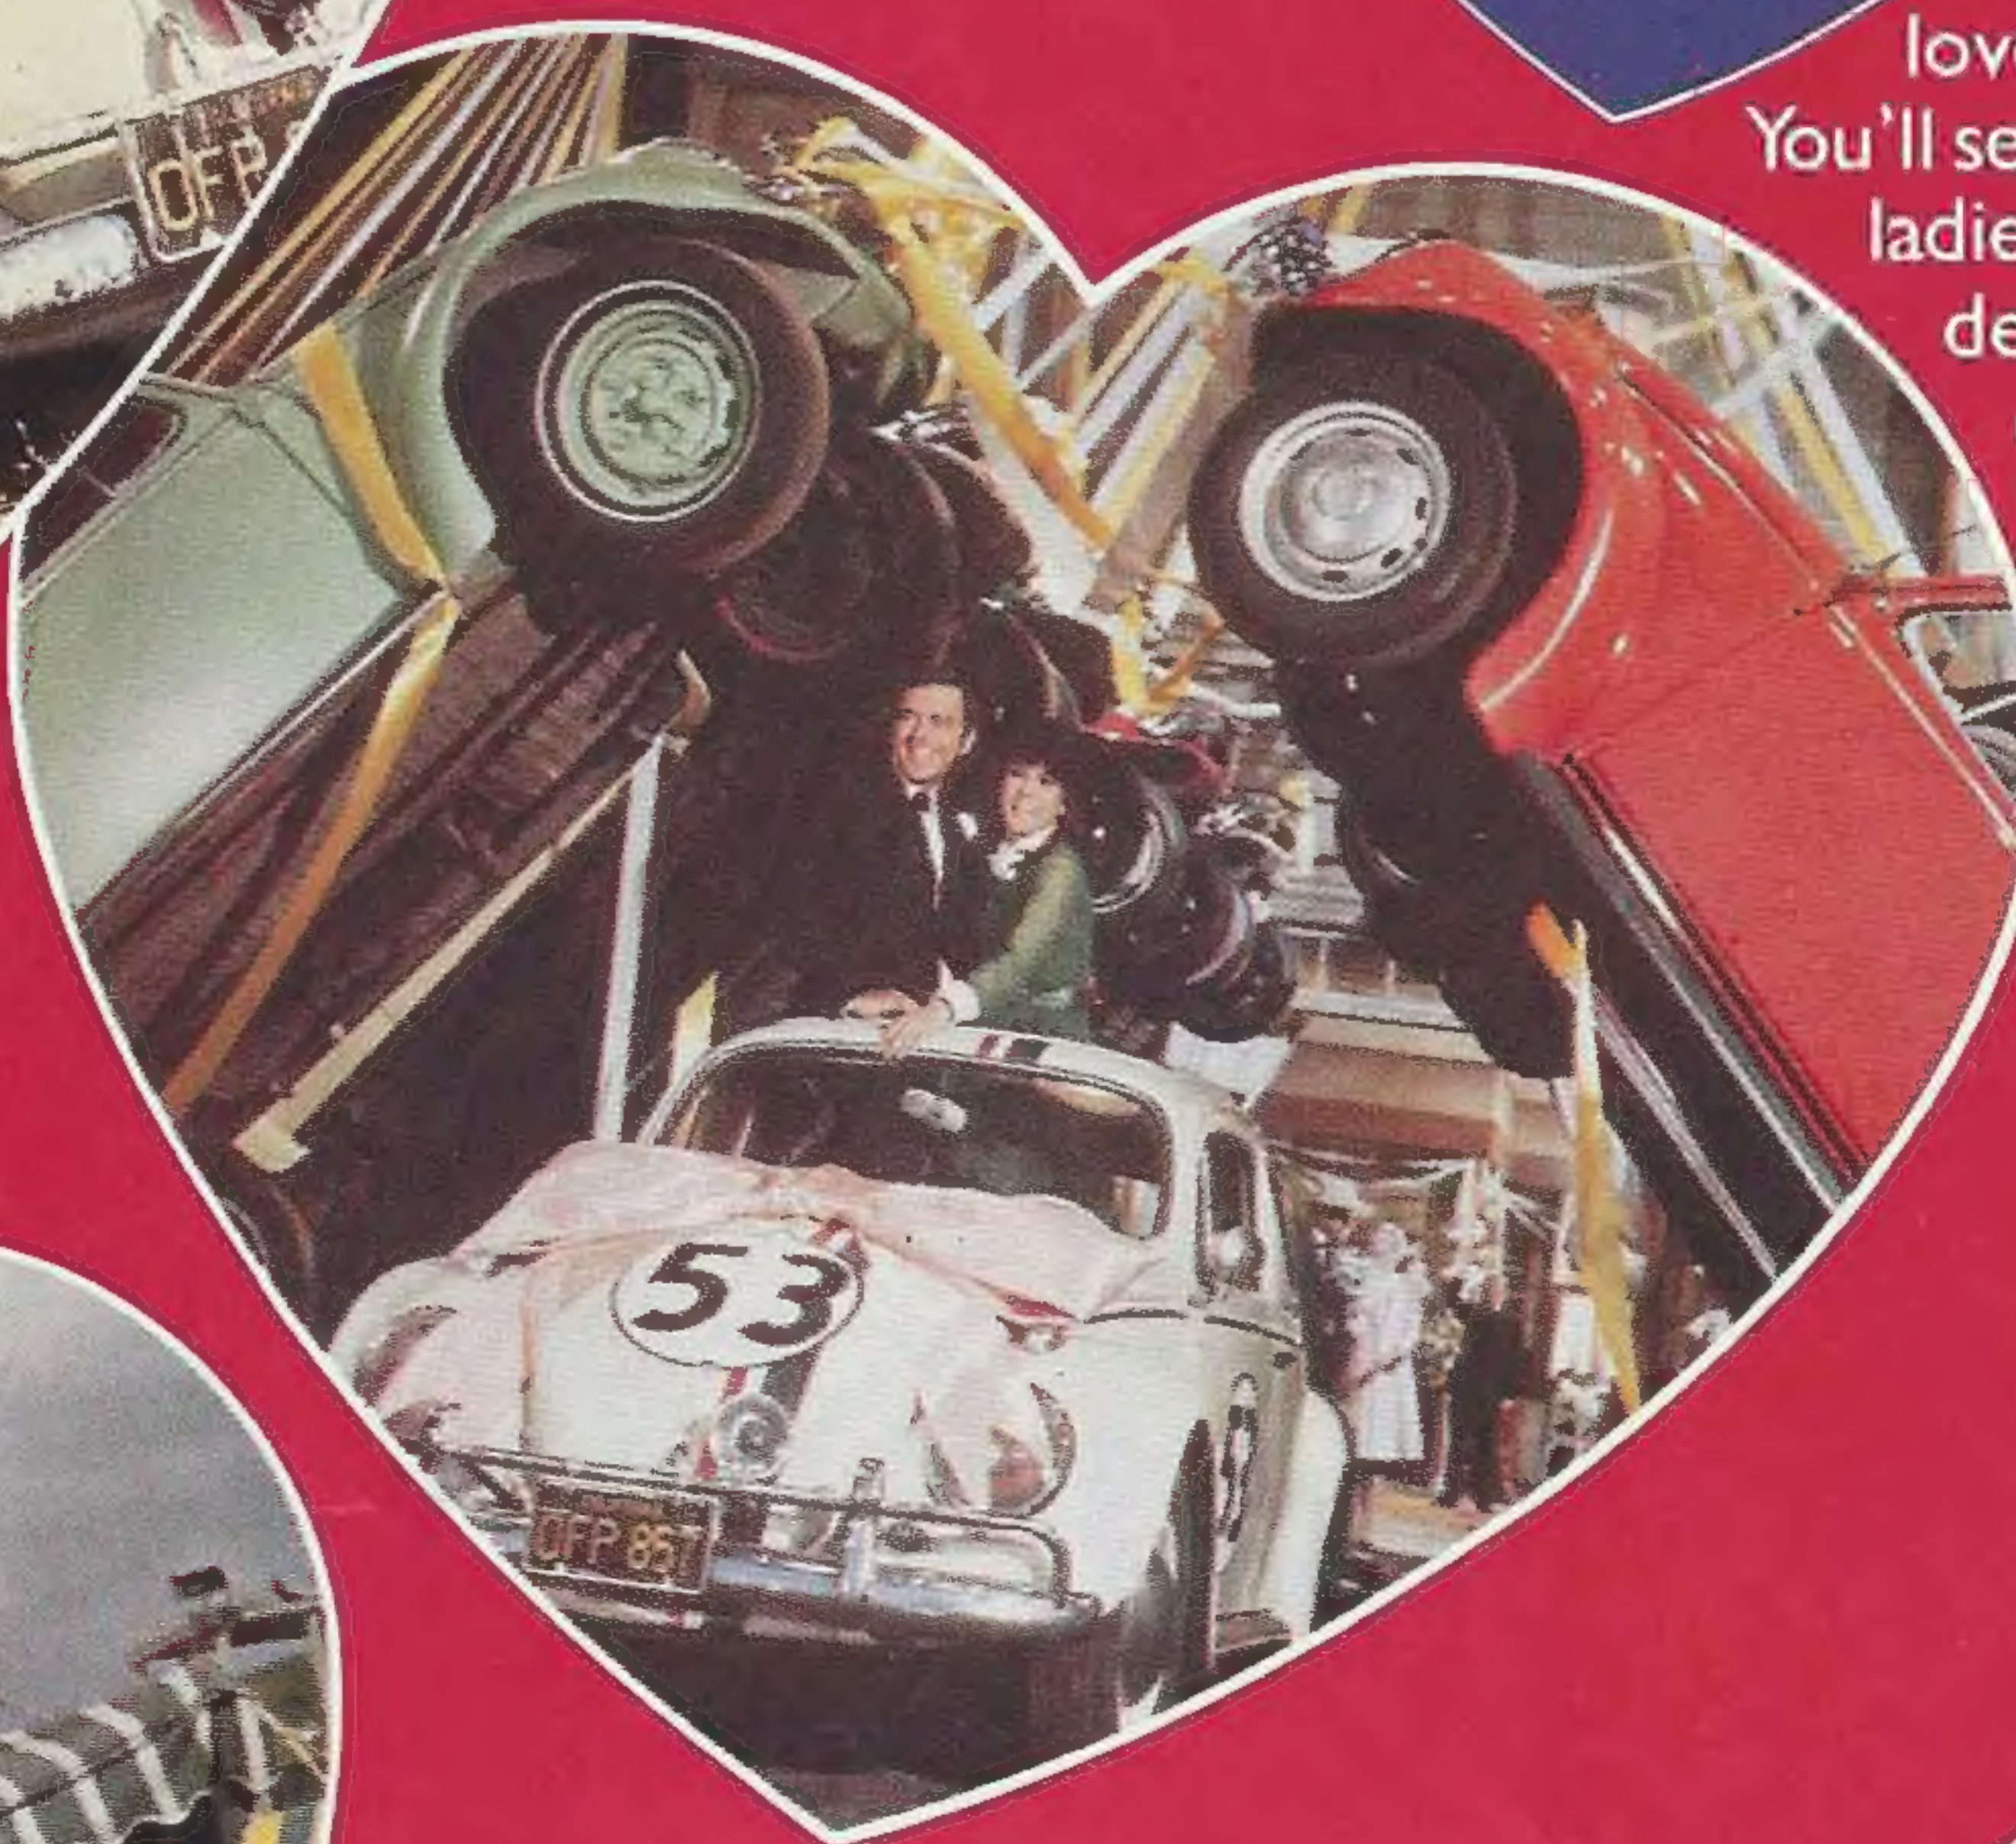

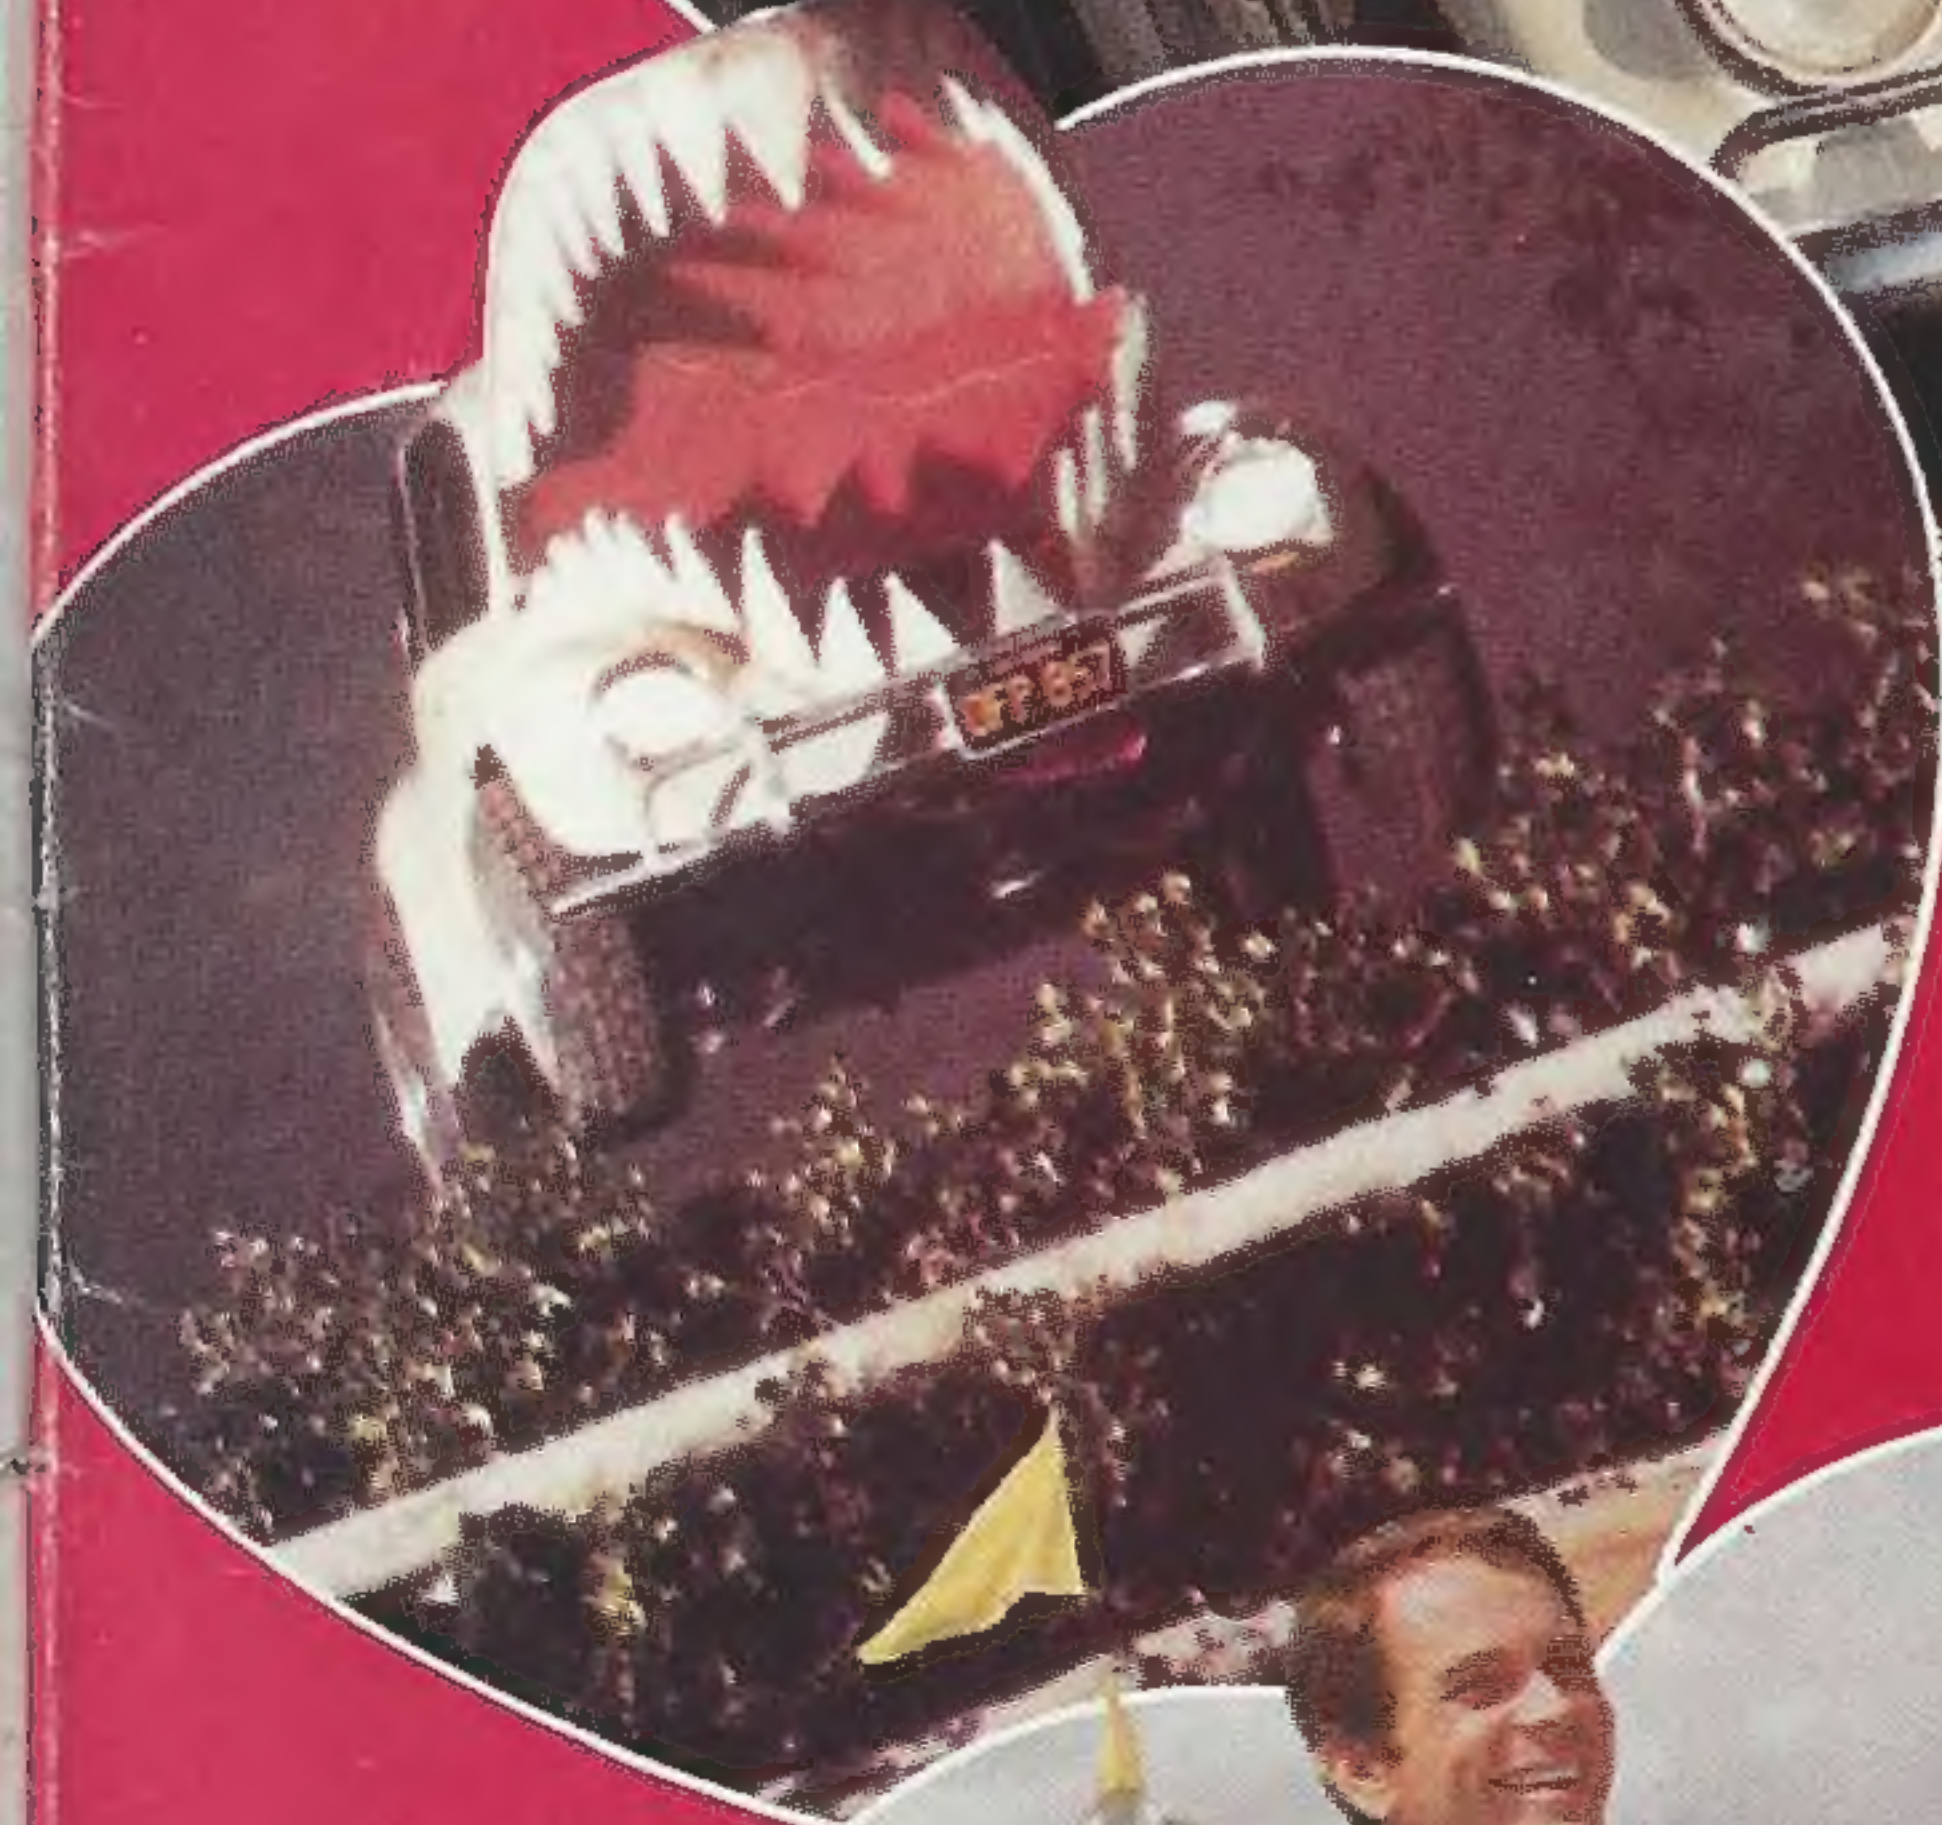

When first introduced to movie audiences, Herbie caused a phenomenon. Overnight, there were Love Bug rallies and decorating contests. The success of his first film, The Love Bug, led to three sequels—Herbie Rides Again, Herbie Goes to Monte Carlo and Herbie Goes Bananas.

And now, Disney Channel audiences are in for a treat—a four month retrospective on Herbie's film career.

PART OF YOUR STAR-SPANGLED SUMMER

You'll see Herbie's full dramatic range: impish, lovesick, steely, obstreperous. You'll see his dazzling cast of leading ladies, his astounding feats of derring do. And you'll understand why, across this great land, everyone knows about Herbie, the Love Bug. The fun starts in June and runs through September.
